BILL'S SUPPORTERS SEE HOUSE VICTORY

Diversion Proponents Predict That Lower
Branch Will Not Reconsider Its Action Monday

BY R. E. POWELL.

Whatever hopes the supporters of diverting highway funds may have held as the result of reports that Governor Russell would approve the action of the house as a committee of the whole in voting to shift 15 per cent of the tag and gasoline tax money to the general fund was blasted Friday afternoon when the governor denied that he favored any such plan for meeting unpaid appropriations.

An afternoon paper Friday quoted the governor as saying that "if the legislature thinks the (highway) department is getting too much money, the proper thing would be to reduce the automobile tag taxes." The governor denied the report that he would not "interfere" with the appropriations committee diversion and added that he had no recollection of talking to any representative of the paper which carried the news story.

Quite to the contrary, his spokesmen and other administration friends in the senate were working out plans to bring up for reconsideration, probably Monday, the amendment of Judge Orville A. Park which would divert $2,000,000 from the highway fund to the general fund. Another amendment, by Representative Hyman, of Washington, would apply it to unpaid appropriations.

House Move Surprising.
Administration spokesmen admitted Friday that they were taken by surprise in the house Thursday afternoon when the Park amendment passed, 83 to 62, after its author had made a vigorous attack on the highway department. They were inclined to the view that the vote was not so much in favor of highway diversion as it was in support of the highway department.

Reports also were current Thursday night and Friday that Governor Russell had been consulted about the Park amendment and that he had given his tacit approval to such a diversion with the understanding that the money would go into the general treasury to meet unpaid appropriations. These reports were branded as "utterly without foundation" by representatives Spence Grayson, of Chatham; Marion Allen, of Baldwin; Harvey Kennedy, of Lamar, and Willis Battle, of Muscogee.

These and other administration supporters pointed out that the amendment could have been stricken on a point of order, and that, as written into the appropriations bill, it was invalid. They admitted a willingness to test the strength of the house on a bill which would provide for diversion of the funds other than through an amendment to the general appropriations measure.

Reconsideration Doubtful
Proponents of diversion, however, were predicting that the house would reconsider its action and that the amendment would be adopted by the house when the bill is reported out of the committee of the whole. They were encouraged not only by the size of the vote, but by reports that their action, if not categorically approved by Governor Russell, at least would not cause the executive to veto the bill.

President W. Cecil Neil, in the senate, and a quartet of administration leaders in the house, Representatives Battle, Grayson, Kennedy and Allen.

Loses Appeal

RALPH CAPONE.

CAPONE SENTENCE UPHELD BY COURT

Two Other Public Enemies' Hopes Dashed as
"Bottles" Loses.

CHICAGO, July 24.—(AP)—Ralph "Bottles" Capone's appeal from conviction for income tax violations was denied today, dashing the hopes of two other "public enemies" of escaping penitentiary terms as well as his own.

The United States circuit of appeals affirmed the federal district court in sentencing the elder brother of the more notorious "Scarface" to three years in Leavenworth penitentiary and a fine of $10,000.

The charge was attempting to defraud the government of taxes, penalty and interest amounting to more than $300,000 on an income of $2,000,000 in 1922, 1923, 1924 and 1925.

It resulted from Capone's declaration that he owed only $5,000, that his only assets were two broken down race horses and that he was prepared to borrow $1,000 if the government would settle for that sum.

Frankie Lake and Terry Druggan, former twin millionaires of the beer trade, had pleaded guilty "with reservations" to evading payment of income taxes. They bet their chances on Capone's winning his appeal. They now face sentence unless they appeal to the supreme court. Capone's attorneys tonight were considering the same course.

It was another link in the government's unbroken chain of victories over Chicago gangsters. Sam Guzik and Frank Nitti are already serving their terms. Al Capone pleaded guilty and is to be sentenced July 30. Former County Assessor Gene Oliver and State Representative Lawrence O'Brien, although not identified with the gangs, and Jack Guzik, brother of Sam, were convicted by juries. Louis Lipschultz, an independent liquor operator; Christian Paschen, a paving contractor; and George L. Chamberlain, an electrical contractor, have been indicted for tax violations. O'Brien also lost his appeal and is still out on bond.

Daughter, 100, Resists
Spanking by Mother, 128

JACKSON, Miss., July 24.—(UP)—An entire century of spanking by her mother was too much for Laura Jane Stone, at Holly Springs, Miss., and the last time she felt the force of parental hand, the other day, she summoned police.

The daughter, 100 years old, received the spanking from her mother, Mrs. Minerva Stone, 128 years old, allegedly because the daughter refused to pay "an honest debt" of 75 cents she owed her mother.

STIMSON DENIES OFFICIAL OBJECT IN BERLIN VISIT

Observers, However, Believe Financial Problems Will Be Discussed
by American, Germans.

LONDON, July 24.—(AP)—Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson was on the way to Germany tonight where for two days he will continue his conversations with Chancellor Brüning and Foreign Minister Curtius.

When he boarded the boat train for Harwich he said he wanted to make it clear that the visit is just a trip to one more European capital so that he may become better acquainted with the heads of the several governments.

It has nothing to do with financial matters, he said, and is not concerned with the work of the sewerage conference which just ended.

Those who have watched recent developments closely, however, agreed that this opportunity for the American secretary to make first-hand observations in Germany is important.

In authoritative quarters it was said the Germans had abandoned their intentions to present their hopes for a large American credit to Mr. Stimson. It is understood the request never was actually made of Mr. Stimson, and there is a general feeling that such a matter is a problem for the bankers rather than for statesmen.

There was no formality of leave-taking, although attaches of the American embassy and the British foreign office accompanied Mr. Stimson to the railway station. Only his secretary and an attaché went with him.

On Tuesday he will be back, to remain in London two or three days before going on to Scotland for the grouse shooting.

He was the last of the conference delegates leaving today to get away. Aristide Briand went first so that he could motor from Calais to Paris. Later the French, German and Italian representatives crossed to the continent on the same channel boat.

Persons close to the American delegates reiterated tonight the general satisfaction among them at the outcome of the international meeting, asserting that it probably did much to smooth the way for next year's disarmament conference.

Cut in Wages, Personnel Of County Asked by Jury

Salary Slashes of From 10 to 33 1-3 Per Cent
Recommended in Special Presentments.
Waste and High Cost of Government Scored.

Declaring the costs of operating county governmental machinery to be very excessive and entirely out of line with present-day conditions, the jury grand jury Friday afternoon recommended drastic salary cuts of from 10 to 33 1-3 per cent and a reduction in personnel, in special presentments returned before Judge E. D. Thomas of Fulton superior court, and ordered filed by him.

The grand jury submitted a special presentment a report of a grand jury committee which was received and adopted by resolution. Members of the committee on operating costs of Fulton county was composed of Forrest Greene, W. R. Heston and J. Russell Porter. The presentment was signed by Thomas H. Pitts, foreman, and J. N. Williamson, secretary.

The recommendations are that salary cuts be placed into effect in all departments except the Fulton county school department, and that a reduction in force could be made "without reducing the efficiency of the department."

Not including the Fulton county school department we find there are a little upwards of 1,000 officers and employees on the pay roll with a total monthly payroll of approximately $175,000. About one-half of this total are connected with the public works department, and the remaining one-half represents all other departments.

After studying carefully the pay rolls, duties, etc., of all concerned, our opinion is the cost is very excessive and in excess of like service in practically all other departments.

Roosevelt Meets
Al Smith Today

Political Eyes of Nation
Are Glued Upon Long Island Inn.

NEW YORK, July 24.—(AP)—State and national political figures will meet at a Long Island luncheon tomorrow which may prove to be a factor in crystallizing sentiment for a democratic presidential candidate in 1932.

It will be the first meeting of Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt and former Governor Alfred E. Smith, nominal leader of his party, since the recent re-election of Mr. Roosevelt.

Whether politics will be discussed was a question which none of the leading men in the room at the Canoe Place inn, at Hampton Bays, today would answer. No announcement was made of the invitation list, but it was understood that the two important personages of the democratic party in New York state would be surrounded by a large group of admirers.

That former Governor Smith, defeated candidate for president in 1928, has given no sign of opposition to the possible aspirations to the presidency of his old-time associate was declared by numerous local leaders. It was pointed out that the ex-governor never had denied his wholehearted support to any ambition evidenced by the man who followed in his steps to Albany, and probably would not now deny it if it developed that Governor Roosevelt should seek to be nominated by the democrats at their 1932 standard bearer.

The governor is on a tour of Long Island. Mr. Smith is spending the week-end at the inn. The luncheon meeting was arranged by Basil O'Connor, the governor's former law partner.

CHILEAN STUDENTS SURRENDER 'FORT' AFTER 2 ARE SLAIN

President Calls Emergency Conference as Police Quell Rioting Along Santiago Streets.

BY HAROLD P. BRAMAN.
SANTIAGO, Chile, July 24.—(AP)—Obtaining guarantees for their immediate personal safety, anti-government students surrendered at the University of Chile late today after a day of rioting in which two were killed and hundreds injured.

The students left the barricaded university under an arrangement which permits them to assemble if for peaceful intention.

At the same time, President Carlos Ibañez called Pedro Opazo, president of the senate, for an emergency conference at the palace. The purpose of the conference was unknown, unless it was to discuss possible political steps on the part of the president or Opazo.

Firing in the university sector had ceased tonight. The authorities believed the heavy firing became too hot for the students, who were poorly armed and without food, lights or telephone, all lines having been cut.

There was firing late today outside the congressional building, the adjacent law courts and the office of the newspaper El Mercurio. Troops took up positions behind automobiles and lamp posts and fired up and down the streets.

Small crowds seized lone troopers or pairs on foot, beat them and took their rifles.

There were unconfirmed reports that a general strike was contemplated on the nitrate pampas, where large American and British interests are located, and that excitement was prevalent at Valparaiso.

Troops had an argument with a mechanical employee of El Mercurio, then left the building and opened fire on the newspaper plant. One employee was seriously wounded.

Woman Convicted
At Murder Trial

Inez Temples Sentenced to Life for "Silk Stocking" Killing.

MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga., July 24.—(AP)—Judge James B. Park sentenced Inez Temples today to life imprisonment after a jury returned a verdict of guilty with recommendation of mercy for her part in the murder of Edgar Horton, 14-year-old white boy who was found dead in the home of Robert Seay, last November, with a silk stocking tied around his neck.

Earlier in the week Robert Seay received a similar sentence.

Attorney C. B. McCullar immediately filed a motion for a new trial in the case of Inez Temples and Robert Seay to be heard before Judge Park in September.

The defense counsel made an effort to discredit the testimony of Billy Grimes, white man, who told the jury that he saw Robert Seay, Inez Temples and Mae Crooms, who is also under indictment, carrying the dead boy's body into the Seay home from a nearby woods. Other evidence substantiated this evidence. This was the principal feature of the trial.

FLETCHER TO QUIT U. S. TARIFF GROUP

Chairman of Commission
Will Retire September
16, Hoover Told.

WASHINGTON, July 24.—(AP)—Henry P. Fletcher will retire September 16 from his post as chairman of the tariff commission.

He said today he had informed President Hoover that, although he was appointed for a six-year term beginning last fall, he desired to be released at the end of his first year in office. It was understood, Fletcher said, at the time the appointment was made, that he would serve only during the reorganization period of the commission.

The Pennsylvania, who has spent 30 years in the government service, said he had no definite plans for the future.

Questioned as to reports he intended to run for the senate, Fletcher denied he was quitting the commission to enter politics.

The White House was silent today upon the resignation and there was no indication that President Hoover had begun consideration of a successor.

The 58-year-old chairman has long been a personal friend of President Hoover. He accompanied the then president-elect on his good-will tour of Latin-America in 1928 to make available his wide knowledge of Latin-American affairs and customs acquired while he was ambassador to Chile.

Fletcher first entered the government service as a "rough rider" under Theodore Roosevelt. Since then he has occupied a number of government posts under various presidents including ambassador to Italy and under-secretary of state.

He indicated last year before going on the tariff commission that he wished to remain in this country and did not seek another diplomatic post. In announcing his forthcoming retirement he pointed out that every commission report adopted under his chairmanship received a unanimous vote, and he denied that friction between himself and the president or other members of the commission had precipitated his resignation.

Every report sought by congress will be ready for presentation December 1, he said, except that dealing with agriculture, which is being deferred until the 1931 crop figures are available.

PITTSBURGH, July 24.—(AP)—Thirty persons were known to be dead, 20 were missing and more than 100 were in hospitals after a fire had destroyed the Home for the Aged of the Little Sisters of the Poor here.

Most of the dead were aged inmates of the home, located in the East End district. Efforts to make a check on the number which might have been trapped in the home, which housed numerous cripples, was impossible because the rescued were at various hospitals and in a nearby school and private homes.

Roy Adlesburger, deputy coroner at the scene, said it was his opinion that "quite a few" had perished in the burning building, which was an expansive four-story structure of brick.

The fire was not detected by persons at the home but was first sighted by neighbors who turned in an alarm. Six alarms were sounded in rapid succession as soon as the seriousness of the situation was discerned, and firemen and policemen were called from all parts of the city.

The flames quickly spread to all parts of the home and many aged persons could be seen standing at windows screaming for help. Nuns and brothers of a religious order aided firemen in the work of rescue.

The mother superior of the institution was among those most active in assisting the elderly men and women from the building. After the fire had spread so that it was dangerous for anyone to enter, she had to be forcibly detained from further attempts at rescue.

Ambulances, taxicabs and private automobiles were used to take the victims to hospitals. Most of the hospital cases were persons overcome by smoke or injured when they jumped into life nets held by firemen.

First Aid on Grounds.
Hundreds of rescuers battled desperately against the flames to bring out those believed remaining in the building, and the work was aided by the home was quickly occupied with physicians and nurses giving first aid as victims were brought out.

Police battled as an estimated crowd of 200 persons gathered as the flames lighted up the sky.

Eight dead were brought to the morgue from St. Francis hospital, six from another, five from the Hospital of the Holy Spirit, and one from the Pittsburgh hospital, while six dead were at the emergency hospital set up in the basement of the St. Lawrence.

Albert Fall Tells His Story

Sinclair and the Teapot Dome Lease.

BY ALBERT B. FALL.

(Copyright, 1931, by N. A. S. A., Inc.)

Editor's Note: This is the tenth of a series of articles in which Albert B. Fall, sentenced to prison for having accepted a bribe while he was secretary of the interior, tells his own story of his experiences in Washington.

About certain things of which I was assured by my prosecutors to have knowledge, I was astonishingly innocent. Until it came out in testimony I did not know Harry F. Sinclair had contributed thousands upon thousands of dollars to the republican national campaign committee. I did not know Will Hays, republican national chairman, afterward postmaster general, had been—or rather, as he so explicitly testified, that his law firm had been—employed by Sinclair as counsel.

My surprise was further increased on learning of these things by the fact that in presenting his offer for the Teapot Dome lease Sinclair had mentioned none of them to me. Many a man would have. It is probably pointless to say so now, but had he done so the whole nation would have heard a roar from me.

The Teapot Dome lease was a gigantic operation. It called for the production of millions of barrels of oil. One of the navy's requirements for development of the field was a pipeline nearly 1,000 miles long, from Teapot Dome to Carrolltown, Mo. This would connect with other pipelines to make deliveries of oil to the seaboard possible.

It will be remembered that the E. J. Doheny (California) leases were for the military purpose of making fuel oil and storage available on the Pacific in case of war emergency; Teapot Dome, with seaboard outlets and gulf coast outlets, and even a plan to store the oil in Cuba, was intended to take care of the other side of the United States.

The required pipeline would cost $15,000,000 to $20,000,000, and the navy required it to be built at once.

ping board paid the "field price." The company which fixed the "field price," the price it would pay, in both instances was the Standard Oil. There being no competitive demands for oil at Salt Creek the field price at that point was, over a five-year period, 40 to 75 cents a barrel lower than the Tulsa (Okla.) price.

Need for Competition.
The big pipeline to Mississippi would bring Tulsa prices into the Teapot Dome area, introducing competition, you see.

In the exchange of Salt Creek crude oil for fuel oil at the Pacific coast, the shipping board, through price differences, was making a profit for itself. But this profit was being made at the expense of the state of Wyoming, the United States reclamation fund and the miscellaneous receipts fund of the United States treasury.

My contract with Sinclair provided Tulsa prices for Teapot Dome oil. By reason of the pipeline, facilities, deliveries, I was able, after cutting off the shipping board, to sell Salt Creek royalty oils at $8,000 more a day, which benefited the funds I mentioned.

Sinclair was forehanded in every way in getting up his offer for the Teapot Dome leases. He had financed himself to build the great pipeline, a most desired and first requirement. He bought up, at enormous expense I understand, the outstanding Pioneer company claims, wiping out the obstacle to the navy's plans. These claims, all clear, he attached to his lease offer when he handed it in—a master stroke of seamanship so far as I was concerned.

I didn't think that anywhere could I get a better bargain for the United States. To all others who showed an interest, or expressed a desire to get in on Teapot Dome, I displayed Sinclair's offer. All admitted it was an offer none of them could touch; especially, none of them wanted to understand the pipeline with its enormous financial outlay.

Settlement Clause.
Running over Sinclair's proposition one day I noticed a clause which provided that every 30 days the navy could return to the state of Wyoming oil certificates (for the navy's royalty share of the oil produced) either in cash or in oil.

When I read that I knew Sinclair had inadvertently hooked himself. He could not more than get started before the navy could, if it desired, demand a cash settlement. When he was then, with his funds tied up in a plant not yet producing any revenues?

He came in to see me, disturbed. "What—but I've got myself in jam," he exclaimed. "This clause will ruin me!"

"I thought you'd be back," I said. "But it was your own proposition, you know."

"Yes, I know; but if I have to go through with it—"

I told Sinclair to calm himself, that the government had no desire to break him. He rewrote the clause, providing that the navy must give him six months' notice before making a demand for settlement. This gave Sinclair time to start his refineries.

But I used this concession to drive still another bargain. It had been agreed that in exchanging fuel oil for crude oil Sinclair would give the navy 95-100ths of a barrel of fuel oil for each barrel of crude oil he produced. Experts, consulting prices over a period of years, had determined this was the proper ratio.

"We will just make that barrel for barrel!" I said—and waited for Sinclair to explode.

Which he did.

Hold on Administration.
"Now that would ruin me!" he said. "If he had any kind of hold on the administration, as was later hinted, right there would have been the place for Sinclair to have informed me. He could have gone over my head and raised all kinds of hades with me."

"Oh, no," I said, "it isn't going to ruin you. If you can afford 95-100ths of a barrel you can afford 100-100ths."

He turned quickly to his attorney. "Zevely," he said, "give me that contract."

He took the papers from Zevely and slapped them down in front of me. "That ends it!" he said. "I'm through!"

"I am sorry," I said. "I regret you take that position—but of course it's entirely up to you."

"I can't do it, I tell you!" "All right," Mr. Sinclair. All right. I didn't want him to back out, where else could I have duped him? Besides, don't forget, he held the key to the development of Teapot Dome those important pioneer company claims. But he liked to venture. (His interest in race horses was one outlet for this trait.)

He sat in a deep study several minutes. Finally he said, resignedly: "Oh, well—if I am ruined I am ruined already, at 95-100th of a barrel. And when I get into the jam over that 30-day delivery clause you had it in your power to ruin me by enforcing it—and you didn't."

Signs Contract.
Suddenly this mood, one of reflection and arguing with himself, gave way to recklessness.

"Let the tail go with the hide!" Sinclair said. "Hand me that contract and I'll sign it."

Mr. Stafford, my secretary, was there when this was done. His testimony was never taken. He died some time later, and the other witness, whose testimony also was never taken, died a year or two after that.

Roosevelt Clubs To Meet

With New York Governor At Warm Springs in Fall

Dr. R. B. Gilbert, of Greenville, Meriwether county, president of the Meriwether Roosevelt-for-President Club, which inaugurated the movement for a statewide organization, was in Atlanta Friday.

Dr. Gilbert reports that he has already received notices of organization from more than 50 county clubs, and also has advice that many others will be formed during the next few weeks.

To Meet When Roosevelt Comes.
On being asked concerning the statewide meetings of the representatives of the various county organizations, Dr. Gilbert said, "I expect to call this meeting at Warm Springs during the early fall, at the time that Governor Roosevelt will be there."

"I am now in communication with him and later on will be advised of the definite time of his making his usual fall trip to Georgia."

"As the Georgia home county of Governor Roosevelt we organized the first Roosevelt-for-President Club, at which meeting I was authorized to institute a statewide movement. A resolution was adopted requesting all county organizations to notify me of the names and addresses of their officers so that I might later on get in touch with them concerning a call for statewide organization. The responses have come from every part of the state, and I am getting more every day."

Urges Every County to Act.
"Let me urge again that every county that has not yet organized a Roosevelt-for-President Club, do so for we hope by fall to have an organization in every county in the state, so that when Governor Roosevelt comes to Warm Springs he will be greeted by club representation from every county in Georgia."

"It looks now as if Governor Roosevelt, taking by drainage from under the naval reserve."

Today these leases are all broken. The wells were stopped up. Who gets the oil now?

Who profits thereby?

Tomorrow: Certain senators become suspicious of the oil leases; an investigation is ordered.

ANNEXATION MEASURE VETOED BY MAYOR KEY

Mayor James L. Key Friday definitely wrote final to all annexation attempts of the borough of the year, when he vetoed a proposal to annex about 10 acres of land near the Confederate Soldiers' home. Action by the city council assembly is a prerequisite to annexation.

The mayor's action followed appearance of a committee of about 25 citizens, who, when the annexation was being considered, they were singled out of a block of 15 square miles, which it was proposed to include in the expansion program, and that the move would entail an economic hardship.

Key approved all other council measures passed to him with the exception of one permitting the erection of a monument to the city of Atlanta streets for relief purposes. He holds that all such activities should be concentrated under one head.

CHILD IN RUM CASE GIVEN TO MOTHER
The case of 11-year-old Blanche Cobb, whose name became linked with a liquor case several weeks ago when county police staged a raid on the Cobb home, was disposed of in juvenile court Friday when the court gave custody of the child and placed her with her mother, Mrs. Nannie Cobb, under the supervision of the court.

The child was taken to court at 10 o'clock, and the court at 11 o'clock was shown to be unfit. It was brought out in making a disposition of the case, that the parents were separated. The mother is slated to be tried before Judge Jesse Wood on a whiskey charge growing out of the raid.

MONOPOLY IS CHARGED TO U. S. ALUMINUM CO.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., July 24.—(AP)—The Bausch Machine Tool Company, of Springfield, Mass., today filed suit in the United States district court here against the Aluminum Company of America, of Fairfield, Pittsburgh, Pa., seeking $9,000,000 damages.

The plaintiff company charged the defendant concern with having a monopoly upon the aluminum business, controlling the prices, and unfair competition. The plaintiff alleges the defendant holds the bulk of bauxite deposit in the world through its subsidiary companies, and through discrimination of prices is forcing other concerns out of business.

CASHIER FOUND SHOT AS BANK NEARS CLOSE

BARLOW, Ky., July 24.—(AP)—Will H. Herrell, 53, cashier of the Bank of Barlow, 20 years, was found shot in his office today following last night's decision of the board of directors not to open the bank today.

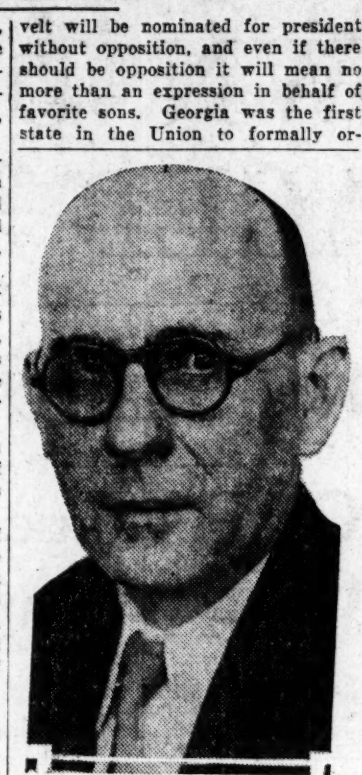

Three bullets had pierced his chest, one near the heart, and his pistol, which he had bought some time ago and kept in his desk during an outbreak of bank holidays had been used. He was not expected to recover. The bank's statement of June 30 showed deposits of $90,000. A state banking commissioner is to arrange tomorrow to take charge.

MRS. M. C. M'PHERSON DIES IN BIRMINGHAM

Mrs. Mamie Cuthbert McPherson, of Birmingham died Wednesday. She was the mother of Mrs. John Clayton Turner, and the sister of Mrs. E. S. Tenant and of Thomas E. Cuthbert, all of Atlanta. In addition, she is survived by two daughters, Mrs. W. H. Brown, of Erwin, Tenn., and Mrs. J. F. Jones, of Birmingham; two sons, T. Neil McPherson, of Birmingham, and Robert A. McPherson, of Columbus, Miss.; and a sister, Mrs. A. W. White, of Thomaston, Ga.

MRS. GUY CARPENTER DIES AT NEW YORK

Mrs. Guy Carpenter Sr., formerly of Atlanta, died Thursday at her residence in Pelham Manor, N. Y. Mr. Carpenter was a prominent insurance man in Atlanta, prior to his removal to New York about eight years ago, and Mrs. Carpenter was well known here.

TESTIMONY CONCLUDED IN AUGUSTA RATE CASE

Testimony in the Augusta gas rate fight was ended at a special hearing before Federal Master Stiles Hopkins at the postoffice building Friday afternoon, and no further action will be taken until the master files his report with the federal district judge.

The Georgia Public Utilities Company of Augusta is seeking to have new rates fixed by the public service commission and the city of Augusta declared confiscatory. Friday was devoted to verbal testimony and rebuttals, and by 4 o'clock all evidence in the case had been presented. Friday, after the gas company had finished the presentation of its evidence, Friday the city of Augusta completed its evidence.

Attorneys for both sides have until August 15 to file their written briefs and arguments with Mr. Hopkins. He will file his report with Judge E. Marvin Underwood, who then will hand down his decision.

KEY SUPPORTED BY K. K. K. LEADER

In presenting an American flag to the borough of Atlanta Friday Dr. Samuel Green, grand dragon of the Ku Klux Klan, realm of Georgia, approved Mayor James L. Key's assertion of his right of free speech in expressing his views regarding the national prohibition law.

Dr. Green said: "The Klan stands for the same things as this flag—freedom of speech, freedom of the press, free schools and separation of church and state."

"I am willing to fight for my liberty of speech and my liberty of conscience and am equally willing to fight for the liberty of speech and conscience for others, particularly those whose views might be opposed to mine."

MAN SLAIN BY OFFICER WILL BE BURIED TODAY

Funeral services for Victor A. Dailley, 30, of 452 Newport street, who died Thursday at a local hospital as a result of wounds received in a gun fight with police Wednesday, will be held at 11 o'clock this morning at the Pleasant Hill Baptist church, Campbell county, the Rev. J. P. Sorrell officiating. Interment will be in Pleasant Hill cemetery.

Dailley was shot by police when he was discovered in the back yard of his brother's home, 247 Stovall street, with a shotgun and a pistol, which he is alleged to have threatened his wife, Braudon, Bond & Condon company is in charge of the arrangements.

DOUBLE RITES TODAY FOR CROSSING VICTIMS

A double funeral for Mrs. W. E. Cobb, 48, and her daughter-in-law, Mrs. W. H. Cobb, 25, who were killed Thursday when their automobile was struck by a train at the Dollar road grade crossing near Adamsville, will be held at 11 o'clock this morning from the Stewart Avenue Methodist church. The Rev. Willis Jones will officiate. The arrangements are in charge of Harry G. Poole and Company.

Both W. E. and W. H. Cobb are employed by the Southern railroad. Besides her husband, Mrs. W. E. Cobb is survived by four daughters, Mrs. J. M. Wallace, Houston; Mrs. W. G. Carey, Miss Olive Cobb and Miss Dorothy Cobb, all of Atlanta, and five sons, Jesse, Howell, Oliver, Lee and Marion Cobb, all of Atlanta. Mrs. W. H. Cobb is also survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Plury, of Rentz, and several brothers and sisters.

SUSPECT STILL HUNTED IN ADAMS MURDER

Three Squads of Detectives Assigned To Search for Ex-Chauffeur.

Detectives working on the Irene Adams murder mystery continued to search for a former chauffeur, whom they believe to be the slayer. Chief of Detectives A. Lamar Poole said he was confident the arrest of the chauffeur would clear up the week-old murder. Three squads of detectives have been assigned to attempt to locate the suspect.

The chief said the chauffeur quit his job with an Ansley park family Monday and has not been seen since. The woman was slain Friday night. Her body was discovered in a clump of bushes near an alley between Fourteenth and Fifteenth streets, just west of Piedmont avenue.

Meanwhile, Lieutenant T. O. Sturdivant, heading a detective squad working directly under Chief of Police James L. Beavers continued to hold George Georgelas, Greek waiter, and his reputed sweetheart, Eva Wells, Georgelas was taken into the courtroom of Judge Virlyn B. Moore Friday morning for a hearing on his application for release on a writ of habeas corpus, but the hearing was postponed until 11 o'clock this morning, when Assistant Solicitor-General Ed A. Stephens explained the state did not have its evidence in shape.

Sturdivant arrested Georgelas Wednesday, asserting that two days previously he had sold a blood-stained automobile and that the Adams woman shortly before her death had told persons that she feared a Greek named George.

ALIBI IS CLAIMED FOR VICTOR BARRON

Evidence proving that his client was not at the scene of the recent automobile accident which resulted in the death of Miss Grace Platt, nurse at Piedmont hospital, has been assembled by Len B. Guillebeau, attorney for Victor Barron, of 2305 Boulevard S. E., the attorney stated Friday. Barron is under $500 bond on a charge of involuntary manslaughter after a preliminary hearing before Recorder A. W. Calaway. He entered a plea of not guilty, but offered no testimony.

Miss Platt was struck down in front of the Piedmont hospital on June 11 and died June 28. P. P. Pierce, a street car operator, a witness for the prosecution, said the driver of the car that struck Miss Platt gave his name as Victor Barron. Pierce was unable to positively identify Barron in police court, he said.

GIALELLI NOT "GEORGE" HELD IN ADAMS CASE

G. W. Gialelli, Atlanta businessman and downtown real estate owner who is known to his friends as "Greek George," is not the man held in connection with the recent slaying of Mrs. Irene Adams, Mr. Gialelli stated Friday. That he was not acquainted with any persons involved in the Adams case. Similarity in names, he stated, has led to some confusion among persons knowing him by name only.

Hoppers Leave Cash In Destructive Path

LINCOLN, Neb., July 24.—(AP)—Although an army of hungry grasshoppers has played havoc with crops in some sections of Nebraska, the presence of the insect pests has not been without its reward, L. H. Gates, state entomologist, said today.

In Boyd county enterprising farmers and others have found a commercial value for the hoppers. Gates said in a preservative formula. He packed the hoppers, have brought 20 cents a pound among fishermen in Michigan and other states.

TRAFFIC PLAN CHANGES SOUGHT BY COMMITTEE

Drastic changes in Atlanta's traffic system through elimination of pedestrian crossings except at intersections, granting of right-hand turns for west-bound traffic on Edgewood avenue at Five Points and establishment of several one-way streets, will be recommended to council August 3 as a result of the semi-monthly meeting of the special traffic commission Friday.

Lieutenant Jack Malcolm, in charge of traffic, said that the department will tighten up immediately on violations as a result of the new guilty-plea traffic court, where cases can be handled expeditiously. From 300 to 600 cases will be made a day, under the plan, if that number violate the laws.

The court, under the direction of Judge John L. Cone, Friday handled 10 cases, an increase of 150 per cent over the opening day Thursday, when only four were tried.

Reports of the committee also recommend elimination of the pedestrian traffic lanes at Five Points leading to the flag pole in the center of the intersection as a safety move.

Fairlie street, from Carnegie way to Marietta street, would be made a one-way thoroughfare and proposed to make Pryor street one-way for northbound traffic from Houston to Peachtree and southbound from Houston to Edgewood were deferred for further study.

RUSSELL TO VISIT PRISON FARM SITE

Governor Richard B. Russell Jr. Friday received the report of the special committee appointed to negotiate purchase of a new state prison farm, and will visit the selected site, in Tattnall county, before signing the report. The farm purchase paper was submitted to the governor by Representative R. E. Rivers, of Wheeler; Representative John C. Beasley, of Tattnall; ex-Senator George W. Landford, and ex-Representative Boyd Sloan, of Hall county. The site is 12 miles from Greenville, and is said to have some of the richest soil and best timber land in the state.

BEAVERS DECLINES
LIQUOR ARGUMENTChief Will Take No Action
Because Club Refused Specific Data.

Chief of Police James L. Beavers Friday night declined to enter into a controversy with members of the Greater Atlanta Prohibition and Law Enforcement Club concerning alleged sale of liquor to Atlanta minors. Through John A. Manget, president, the club had suggested that Beavers look to Mayor James L. Key, whom the club seeks to recall, for information on law enforcement.

Beavers, however, did say: "If I possessed knowledge of any specific law violations, I would submit them to the proper authorities, as I asked the club to do. If club officials decline to do so, I presume they know what they are doing."

The chief pointed out that Key's statements with the prohibition situation were general, but that the club's statements had pointed out alleged specific cases, "on which we might act."

The club statement Friday suggested that in the event "Key fails to give evidence of liquor law violations, ask some of the 35 men under Beavers who have been tried during the past 18 months for being drunk in uniform, beating up citizens, etc., to tell from whom they got their liquor."

While the battle of words continued, Manget guarded activities of the recall movement with secrecy, declining to give out the personnel of the executive committee or to tell the progress of the drive for the 1931 election.

Federal district court will open in Rome Monday, but Judge E. Marvlin Underwood will hear one day's business on the criminal calendar on that day in court here. Judge W. J. Grubb, of the northern district of Alabama, will preside over the Rome court.

Tom Poulos, alias "Greek Tom," was arraigned before Underwood States Commissioner S. Griffith Friday on a charge of selling liquor at 10 Forsyth street. He was arrested after a search of his place Wednesday and, though admitting that whiskey found in the place was his own, denied selling any. He was ordered held for the federal grand jury under a $1,000 bond.

Judge Virlyn B. Moore Friday granted a temporary injunction restraining W. B. Harrison, as controller, from enforcing a special tax levied on motor carriers by the special session of the legislature, upon E. S. Taylor, of the Taylor Transportation Company of Macon. The injunction seeks to declare the tax unconstitutional. Hearing was set for August 1.

A. J. Montavani, operator of Tony's Junk Yard, at Piedmont and Gilmer street, Friday entered a plea of guilty before Judge Jesse Wood in criminal court of Atlanta to counts of receiving stolen goods. It was brought out that he had made restitution of approximately $1,000, but was fined $1,000 by the judge.

Fulton county police were asked Friday by Whitehall county authorities to be on the lookout for three convicts who early in the afternoon made their escape from a convict camp near Dalton. The three made their get-away in a stolen car, it was said, and were last seen heading for Atlanta. Their names are Albert Wallace, 20; C. W. Turner, 21, and Will Morrison, 20.

Charging that the Georgia Power Company was negligent in not having two men operate a street car at Mitchell and Broad streets, where he was allegedly struck by the car, a lawsuit was filed by the company in Fulton superior court.

Homer Byrd, who in the past has been in the state prison for a number of years, was arrested and arraigned before United States Commissioner E. S. Griffith Friday on a charge of violating the national motor vehicle theft act. He is charged with transporting a stolen car from Atlanta to Birmingham, Ala., on or about April 15, 1929. The car is said to have belonged to Mrs. J. N. Nereb, of Atlanta. Byrd was ordered held under $1,000 bond for appearance at the present term of the federal district court in Birmingham.

Secretary of State John Wilson Friday warned corporations in Georgia that the state requires them to register with the secretary of state annually, except in the case of banks. Each corporation failing to register is subject to a penalty of $50. Since assuming office, Wilson has been investigating, Mr. Wilson says he has found there are a large number of corporations not registered.

R. S. "Uncle Bob" Talmadge, popular doorkeeper of the house of representatives, and Mrs. Talmadge celebrated their fifty-third wedding anniversary at the Kimball House Thursday night. The guests were recruited largely from the members of the general assembly. Former legislators from the county, he has held his present post for the last six years. A measure of his popularity here his majority of 175 votes against 8 for the other candidates for his job at the elections this year.

The grounds of the state capital will be the scene of the final tribute to be paid to the late Dr. John E. White, for 15 years pastor of the Second Baptist church. The ceremonies will take place at 7:45 o'clock Sunday night, when the body will be interred in the crypts of the church. The service will be held in the church building across Washington street from the grounds.

Fulton grand jury for the July term of superior court returned but ten true bills to indict on the regular Friday session. For the most part the indictments were on misdemeanor charges.

H. Ely Goldsmith, New York attorney, now inmate of the federal prison here, was back in prison Friday following the dismissal of a writ of habeas corpus in federal district court. It was the fifth writ he has brought in three different courts. He has been in the prison since he was sentenced following conviction of fraudulent passport operations.

A transcontinental airplane hop with a federal prison was planned Friday by United States Marshal Louis H. Crawford when he made reservations with American Airways for the flight to San Diego, Cal. The trip will be made August 1 when Clarence Midgett will be taken there to stand trial on an auto theft charge. Marshal Crawford is planning an airplane trip with another prisoner to Miami, Fla., possibly next week.

John M. Slaton Jr., manager of the Veterans Bureau, Atlanta, announced Friday that General Frank T. Hines, administrator, has issued orders that a supply of flags be furnished the postmasters of each county seat in every state, in order to give flags for draping the caskets of honorably discharged veterans. The supply has been distributed in Georgia.

Rev. Charlie Tillman has returned home after a successful series of meetings at Naples, Fla., the church membership being more than tripled.

Adjutant General Charles M. Cox left last night to make a week-end visit to Camp Foster near Jacksonville, where the 121st Georgia regiment is in camp. Colonel L. C. Pope, of Dublin, is in command of the regiment, which has its headquarters in Macon.

Dr. James F. Watson, president of the Atlanta School of Expression, will speak at both the morning and evening sessions of the Oakland City Baptist church Sunday. The pastor, Adiel J. Moncrief, will return to Atlanta from Jacksonville Tuesday and resume his duties.

J. G. Hailey, president of the Atlanta Association B. Y. P. U., will be the speaker at the regular meeting of the United Brotherhood of the Guild Hills Baptist church Sunday evening.

Commissioner Alexander M. Damon, Chief Secretary A. E. Smetton and Lieutenant Colonel A. W. Bane, Salvation Army officials of Atlanta, returned from Washington, D. C. Friday, where they conferred with government officials. The agreement is seeking to purchase holdings of the Salvation Army here.

People's Evangelical Mission, 301 Capitol avenue, invites all women and children to attend Sunday school at the mission at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon. Refreshments will be served.

A two-week revival will begin Sunday at the Cooper Street Baptist church, Cooper and Bass streets, with the Rev. T. Howell Jackson conducting. Services will be held at 7:30 o'clock each night.

The Salvation Army will give a special musical program at 7:30 o'clock Saturday night at the Salvation Army gospel tent, Techwood drive and Alexander street. The program will consist of both instrumental and vocal music.

Rev. C. B. Wilmer, of the University of the South, is occupying the pulpit of the St. Luke's Episcopal church each Sunday morning from July and August. Dr. Wilmer will speak Sunday on "The Present Day Revolt Against Authority."

The Fulton county singing convention will hold its third quarterly sing at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the Third Baptist church on Luckie street. The Rev. Hugh Latimer is president of the convention.

Dr. Jack Lance, president of Young Harris College, and Marshall L. Allison, president of the Alumni Association, announced that the annual reunion and home-coming of the alumni will be held on Thursday, August 6, at Young Harris, Ga.

Officers of Camp John B. Gordon, No. 46, Sons of the Confederate Veterans, Friday approved a resolution supporting the death of John B. Gordon, color sergeant of the camp, at a meeting Friday. Henry W. Book-out was elected to fill the unexpired term of his father.

League of Women Voters executive committee Friday requested a meeting with Mayor James L. Key, the Fulton county delegation and members of the league to expedite passage of the Key council reduction measure, according to Mrs. Harry Greene, president of the league. The measure calls for restricting the borough into six wards with two councilmen and one alderman from each.

Grady hospital's new tonsil ward was opened Friday, a group of children being the first patients to undergo treatment, according to Superintendent J. B. Franklin. The six-room eye, ear, nose and throat clinic was endowed by friends of the late Louis J. Elsas, in his memory.

Lieutenant W. L. Stribling, of Macon, led maneuvers of a plane formation Friday in which officers of the fourth corps area training school, at Candler field, participated. The maneuvers were executed before Brigadier General George H. Estes, commander of the eighth brigade, Fort Benning, and other officials. The six-room eye, ear, nose and throat clinic was endowed by friends of the late Louis J. Elsas, in his memory.

Adjutant Sidney Cox will speak at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon and 7:30 o'clock Sunday night in the Gospel tent of the Salvation Army at Alexander street and Techwood drive. Special revival services, being conducted at the tent, will extend through next week.

$2,000,000 DAMAGE DONE BY STORM
HARTFORD, Conn., July 24.—(AP) Damage to tobacco caused by the severe hail, wind, and rainstorm, which visited Suffield, Enfield, Somers and parts of other towns last night, was estimated today at more than $2,000,000 by Albert Newhall, chairman of the board of the Hartman Tobacco Company, today.

Plantations of shade grown in many sections where the crops were blown off and the tobacco exposed to the full force of the hail suffered as badly as the Havana seed and broadleaf grown in the open.

FAYETTEVILLE, ARKANSAS, HIT BY RAIN, WINDSTORM
FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., July 24.—(AP)—A severe rain and windstorm struck this section early today, unroofing small buildings and causing damage to fruit crops.

Nearly two and a half inches of rain fell here.

At the University of Arkansas demonstration farm near here, it was said 15 per cent of the apples were blown from the trees. Corn was flattened in some sections.

HOOVER AT CAMP FOR NEEDED REST
ORANGE, Va., July 24.—(AP)—President Hoover arrived at his Rappahannock camp late today hoping to get a week-end of complete rest before plunging into problems which have accumulated since he began negotiations concerning the German financial crisis.

The chief executive left the capital early in the afternoon and made a leisurely trip to his mountain retreat.

The small party of guests for the week-end included Senator Vandenberg, republican, of Michigan; former Senator Baird, of New Jersey; and Mrs. Baird; Henry Robinson, of Los Angeles; Mark Sullivan, Byron Price, chief of the Washington bureau of The Associated Press; and Mrs. Price; Theodore Joslin, one of the president's secretaries; and Captain Joel Boone, the White House physician.

For the first time in several weeks, Mr. Hoover did not bring a stenographer with him, as he planned to do no work while at the camp.

GEORGE B. HINMAN
DIES IN HOSPITALRetired Engineer and Capitalist Succumbs After Sudden Attack.

George Burch Hinman, 74, retired engineer, capitalist and philanthropist, died early Friday at the Piedmont hospital, where he was taken from his residence, 923 Piedmont avenue, after a sudden attack Thursday morning. At noon Thursday Mr. Hinman underwent an emergency operation.

Funeral services will be conducted at 11 o'clock this morning in St. Luke's Episcopal church by the Rev. C. B. Wilmer. Interment will be in Oakland cemetery, with members of the vestry of St. Luke's and of the Christian Council forming an honorary escort.

Palbearers will be Wilbur Kurtz, Paul Johnson, General William R. Dashiell, John Manget, Weston Hamilton and Dr. H. C. Smith.

Native of England.
A native of London, England, Mr. Hinman was educated at Stratford, Canada, and at Knoxville, Tenn., where the family took up residence later. He moved to Atlanta in 1888 and in 1890 was married to Miss C. Farnsworth, of Fond du Lac, Wis.

While active as an engineer, Mr. Hinman built many important structures in the southeast, among them the Peachtree creek bridge and the Walnut telephone exchange in Atlanta; the Danville River Cotton Mills, Danville, Va., and other mills in LaGrange, Chattanooga and Huntsville, Ala.

During his 40 years' connection with St. Luke's church he took an active part in all its affairs, having been chairman of the building committee for the present church and superintendent of the Sunday school for 15 years. When he retired because of ill health in 1927, a loving cup was presented him by the Sunday school as a token of its esteem. He was a member of the First Presbyterian church choir and throughout his life he retained an enthusiastic interest in music. He was a brother of the late Dr. Thomas H. McPherson, who died recently. Another brother, Dr. Richard Hinman, died about 10 years ago.

Surviving, in addition to Mrs. Hinman, are three daughters, Miss Dorothy and Miss Clara Hinman and Mrs. Charles C. Carter; a sister, Mrs. E. H. Hinman, of Boston; and a grandchild, George Hinman Carter. A son, William Burch Hinman, died in service in 1917.

FAIR FUND CAMPAIGN SAID UNAUTHORIZED
Members of council's world fair committee Friday afternoon passed a resolution setting out that the group has not authorized solicitation of any funds in furtherance of plans for the event.

Alderman James E. Bowden, of the fifth ward, issued a statement in which he said, "I believe we owe it to the people of Atlanta to make our position clear. We will call another meeting next week."

The committee is in charge of arrangements for the event, which will take place in 1937 in observance of the centennial of the founding of Atlanta.

WOODCOCK DENIES TRAP IN KILLINGS
WASHINGTON, July 24.—(AP)—Director Woodcock, of the prohibition bureau, said today the two prohibition agents who were shot to death near Fort Wayne, Ind., while attempting to arrest an alleged bootlegger were following an accepted legal practice of the bureau when they were killed.

Woodcock said the two agents, acting as prospective purchasers, had ordered liquor to be brought to them and attempted to capture the bootlegger when he made the delivery.

This is not regarded as entrapment, Woodcock said, "Entrapment is where an agent influences someone to sell him liquor against the other's will."

It is perfectly permissible where a man is known to be in the liquor business for agents to order liquor from him, putting themselves in the place of his regular customers, as a means of arresting him. It is not entrapment unless the sale is prompted by some special inducement.

BOY SCOUT LEADERS ASSEMBLE IN AUSTRIA
VIENNA, July 24.—(AP)—The sixth international conference of Boy Scout chiefs opened at Baden near Vienna today with representatives of six countries participating. Count Wilczek, chief of the Austrian Boy Scouts, extended a welcome to the foreign leaders. Lord Baden-Powell, chief scout, is expected tomorrow.

Life Insurance Policyholders
Paid $9,775,500 Here in 1930

Out of $2,642,250,949 paid to life insurance policyholders in the United States and Canada in 1930, Atlanta's slice was $9,775,500, placing this city nineteenth among those of the entire continent. Georgia's share amounted to $34,000,000, a decrease of 9.3 per cent from the amount paid in 1929.

The largest single claim in the state was paid to beneficiaries of the late Charles S. King, amounting to $353,208, while nine claims ranging upward from $100,000 were paid on policies held by other Georgians. The statement on which these figures are based was published in the life payments number of the National Underwriter, issued Friday.

Payments in leading Georgia cities were as follows: Macon, $1,970,000; Savannah, $1,356,200; Augusta, $1,225,500; Columbus, $825,400; Athens, $235,000; Valdosta, $217,000; Americus, $170,000; Thomasville, $170,000; and Griffin, $165,000.

The largest death claim paid in the entire country during the year went to beneficiaries of the late John T. Torrance, of Camden, N. J., president and founder of the Campbell Soup Company, his policies totaling $4,600,000. Lon Chaney, the moving picture actor, led $275,000 in life insurance.

BARTON OPENS FIGHT AGAINST ROOSEVELT
WASHINGTON, July 24.—(UP)—Dr. Arthur J. Barton, the Atlanta cleric, who with Bishop James Cannon, led the southern democratic campaign against Alfred E. Smith in 1928, today started a campaign against the democratic nomination of Franklin D. Roosevelt next year.

Barton, now head of the National Anti-Saloon League, issued a statement asserting Roosevelt was "thoroughly wet" and warning democratic party heads that if they failed to learn their lesson in 1928, "it will be necessary to give them another lesson in 1932."

Roosevelt and his supporters now, Barton said, are trying to "suppress the fact" that the New York governor "is a wet" but the prohibition leader revealed that Roosevelt in 1928, approved "every word" of Smith's prohibition platform and "during his state campaign" committed himself openly and frankly to the unconditional repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

Barton's statement was called forth by the promise of Joseph E. Guffy, Pennsylvania democratic leader, that most of his state's large bloc of convention delegates next June would support Roosevelt.

Guffy's "present pledging of the unhatched democratic delegates from Pennsylvania would make Thomas Jefferson turn over in his grave," Barton commented.

Barton's statement was written before the statement of Mayor Anton Cermak, of Chicago, made in New York, voicing approval of Roosevelt, but the tenor of the Anti-Saloon League's statement made it plain that the prohibitionists are just as militant politically as they were four years ago. Apparently they have selected Roosevelt as their principal target, recognizing that with the indicated support of the democratic delegates of New York, Pennsylvania, and Illinois the New Yorker appears to have the inside track for the nomination.

Barton headed his statement by identifying himself as "chairman of the 1928 Asheville conference which organized the anti-Smith movement among southern democrats." He is a Baptist clergyman and a native of Arkansas, and has been in Anti-Saloon League work for more than 15 years.

He was with the wily and dynamic Cannon from the start of the 1928 fight, and the two issued the invitation which brought together several hundred zealous dry-law supporters at Asheville a few weeks after the Houston convention. Prayers, dry law testimonials and anti-Tammany hysteria by that meeting laid the ground work for a campaign held by Hoover's carrying four southern states over Smith.

Cannon in recent months has not been active in the public side of the prohibition cause, but he still holds executive positions with a number of the national prohibition organizations.

Barton said in his statement that the Guffy promise "ought to be a warning to the democrats of the south and to prohibitionists everywhere that the liquor steam roller is at work on the roads for the 1932 convention."

"Southern dry democrats," Barton added, "should not forget Mr. Guffy's long record as an active wet supporter of the Tammany program."

He was in the line of the Smith fight in 1924 and 1928. It was through him that Raskob expended in Pennsylvania the enormous sum which was intended to swing that state into the Tammany-Smith column. Such methods are utterly opposed to the ideals of democracy which suppose that convention delegates will accurately represent the people who elected them and that they will not be delivered blindly to the will of any political boss.

After the hint to repeat the "lesson of 1928," Barton added: "But loyal democrats who are more concerned about democratic principles than they are about enriching a handful of liquor manufacturers at the expense of the prosperity of the nation hope that they will not be necessary."

"There would be no more sense in picking a wet democrat to run in the presidential race in 1932 than in asking a tipsy runner to enter a marathon against a total abstainer."

JOLIET PENITENTIARY SEARCHES FOR ARMS
JOLIET, Ill., July 24.—(AP)—A methodical search of the new state penitentiary for weapons was started today under the direction of Warden Henry C. Hill following the second rumor of impending convict revolution in three days.

The 2,100 convicts will be kept in their cells, save for dining and brief recreation periods, throughout the search, which Hill said would require about 10 days. Even the convicts' mattresses will be inspected.

FIRST SPORTS EACH DAY.

New York 'Drops' Sharkey, Favors Schmeling-Walker Title Go; Gault Is Upset as City Net Tourney Reaches Semi-Final Round

BREAK of the DAY

By Ralph McGill

There was a breath of fall in the air, the smell of burning leaves on the wind, for Georgia Tech alumni Friday.

All those who have been loyal enough to become active alumni received notice that now was the time to send in their requests for football reservations.

They got nice envelopes from the nice athletic office which enabled them to reserve seats for the home games. There was another envelope for tickets to the three out-of-town contests. And still a third for the post season game with the University of California, the charity game wherein the crippled children will benefit.

All of which seemed to make the day feel brighter and cooler and happier. If the time has come to reserve tickets the game can't be far behind.

It is little more than a month now until the tocsin of battle, as the boys say, will be sounded by the Southern Conference coaches. They report on Labor Day each September. And the date is not without its significance. The boys do labor.

THOSE COLLEGE WRESTLERS.

Cy Williams, who finished up as one of Florida's better guards in 1926, is in Atlanta for his wrestling match next Tuesday night with Scotty Scott, former University of Indiana football player.

One is naturally curious about the football men who go into wrestling. Williams thinks they like it. He does.

And the good old plugging line-men, who do more jobs than anyone else, seem to fit in better than the backs.

"Of sixteen former football players in the game," said Williams, "ten were tackles."

"One of the greatest things about the game is balance and a lineman learns that," said the ex-Gator.

"A lineman knows a certain amount of leverage, too, and that is just as important as balance," he continued. "A football man feels sort of natural in there."

FRANK SPEER LOOKS GREAT.

Frank Speer, who finished up his football career at Georgia Tech as a tackle last fall, is in training at New York and looks great, according to Williams.

"I saw Frank working up there quite often," he said, "and he is going fine. I think he will be a success in the game. He has worked off that extra weight he had in front and is in perfect condition. He is built just like Strangler Lewis and is as strong as a couple of bulls. If he doesn't make a go of it no one will."

Williams trained for several months in New York and is now being matched in the better rings about the country. He lost to a tough ring veteran here last week but made a good impression.

Doug Wycoff, former Tech star fullback, is torn between wrestling and pro football. Wycoff has signed with the New York Giants to play pro football next fall. If he decides to drop out of the gridiron game he will go into wrestling.

"I'd like to see what Doug can do with wrestling," said Williams. "He was a star at every type of athletics he took up and I imagine he would be good on the mat."

UNCLE ROBBIE'S ROBINS.

Those Robins of Your Uncle Wilbert Robinson are bob-bob-bobbing along all right but they are bob-bob-bobbing nowhere in particular. They do not bob up fast enough.

Friday's game was one of those games which make the Robins look very dumb, sort of first cousins of the old blind mule.

The Robins made 21 base hits and no errors and yet lost to Pittsburgh, 8 to 7. The Pirates made only 13 hits and mixed in an error with them.

A ball club which cannot win with 21 hits—well, write your own comment.

FIGHT BROADCASTS.

One wonders about this radio broadcast of fights.

James J. Johnson, the Boy Bandit of the racket, did not broadcast his Sharkey-Walker fight. Not only that but he assured the folks that there would not be any last minute switch to the mike.

James J. Johnson refused $20,000 for the rights. Which comes near being a refusal of serious money.

The Cleveland fight was broadcast and thousands stayed at home to hear it there.

And now comes James J. Johnson, who will promote other big bouts, to say that he will never permit any of his braves to go on the air.

Other promoters say it helps the gate. Jimmy Johnson says it doesn't. He is the only promoter who has had one.

SOLDIER LEAVITT RETURNS.

Soldier Leavitt, who was retired from the wrestling game by the combined press of Atlanta, called to say that he had not retired but had won three matches since his press retirement. Two of them were tough, he says.

A TENNIS PRO.

Milo Potucek, employed by a local sporting goods store, was wounded in the feelings by the statement that there was no tennis pro in Atlanta.

"While there are a half dozen players here who can beat me I have the knack of teaching and have helped some of the boys here," he said.

"I am ready to teach any of them and can improve their game."

GO THAMBOARD 'DROPS' SARKOR, FAVORS TITLE GO

New York Ring Fathers Finally Wake Up; Turn to Garden.

By Dixon Stewart,

United Press Staff Correspondent.

NEW YORK, July 24.—(AP)—Jack Sharkey's hopes of securing a return bout with Max Schmeling for the world's heavyweight championship, which were considerably lessened by the Boston heavy's draw against Mickey Walker, were shattered definitely today by the New York athletic commission's tacit withdrawal from its role as Sharkey's chief sponsor.

Announcement of the commission's change of heart was made in an unofficial conversation between William Muldoon, spokesman for the boxing board, and Jack Kearns, manager of Mickey Walker. Muldoon questioned Kearns regarding the prospects of a Walker-Schmeling bout for the title and intimated that the commission would approve such a bout and recognize the winner as world's champion.

NO LONGER FAVORED.

Previously the commission has refused to recognize Schmeling except as "German champion," and barred Max from meeting anyone except Sharkey in this state. Sharkey was acclaimed by the commission as "American champion."

Despite Muldoon's unofficial admission that Sharkey no longer was regarded as a worthy challenger for Schmeling, the commission made an attempt to justify its previous support of the Bostonian as the leading American heavyweight by publication of the official score cards for the Sharkey-Walker bout.

The cards showed that a harmless loss in the eighth round of the fight cost Sharkey the decision. With Referee Arthur Donovan awarding the verdict to Walker and Judge George Kelly voting for Sharkey, the ballot of Judge Charles F. Mathison actually decided the contest.

Mathison scored the bout as a draw, but he reported that the eighth round, in which Sharkey actually had a point advantage, had been scored for Walker because of the commission's rule penalizing a low blow by loss of the round. If there had been no low blow the Bostonian would have made the Bostonian a winner.

ABANDONS PLANS.

With the commission's announcement regarding the scoring, Jack Kearns abandoned his intention of asking an official reversal of the decision. Kearns previously had announced he would ask the commission to declare Walker the winner, but instead, he threw away his prepared protest against the "robbery of Walker" and thanked the commission for the "courteous treatment" accorded him by the commission and officials.

The commission also indicated that it was in a forgiving mood by granting Madison Square Garden a license to stage outdoor shows in Yankee stadium and the Polo grounds. The license had been delayed for several weeks and boxing followers believed the commission planned to grant the Garden for its participation in the Schmeling-Stribling fight at Cleveland by preventing the Garden from holding outdoor shows in New York this summer.

Granting of the license cleared the way for the Garden's proposed return match between Billy Petrolle and Jimmy McLarnin at Yankee stadium August 20.

Sun Beau Favored In Cup Race Today

CHICAGO, July 24.—(UP)—A field of seven was named today to compete in the $20,000 added Arlington cup race at Arlington Park tomorrow. The distance is a mile and a quarter.

Sun Beau, Willis Sharpe Kilmer's veteran handicap horse, was an early favorite at odds of 6-5. The Audley Farm's Gallant Knight was second choice at 2-1.

Spanish Fly, Louisiana and Latria Derby winner and second to Mate in the Arlington classic last week, was the only 3-year-old named. All entries were assigned 120 pounds except Spanish Fly, which will carry 114.

BRAZILL SLAPS HOMER TO BEAT CRACKERS, 4-3

Blow Comes in Tenth After Chicks Tie Score, 3-3.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., July 24.—Frank Brazill's tenth-inning homer broke up today's baseball party at Russwood park, gave the Chicks a 4-3 decision over the Crackers and set the Chicks firmly in second place.

Brazill's hit broke up one of the most turbulent diamond tussles set before the fans in Red Elm bottoms in a long time. The Crackers overcame a one-run lead by the Chicks in the first and were leading 3 to 1, through the sixth. The Chicks scored in the seventh, tied it in the ninth and then Brazill broke it up.

"Jug-Handle" Morrison, the third Cracker pitcher paraded by Dobs in his anxiety to win, was hurt for a double. Very oddly, two Cracker pitchers had been taken out with only three hits off them in five innings. It looked like Dobs' third inning had been the winning one as Morrison stopped the Chicks without a score when he relieved Paul Gregory in the sixth with two on and none out. Gregory had relieved Andy Messenger with two on and none out in the third and retired the side safely.

STRUGGLING ALONG.

In the meantime, Clarence Griffin, the tiny Texe left-hander, had struggled valiantly through nine innings, giving up three runs and eight hits. He went out for a pinch hitter in the ninth and Walter Cook finished the game and was credited with the victory.

While Brazill broke up the party it was a pinch double by Bernie Lewis in the ninth that made Brazill's deed possible. With one out, Lewis, batting for Griffin, lashed a liner to center field where it landed in the bleachers, but while first Barnes and then Hammond was kicking it around, Lewis continued on to third. He scored on a wild pitch.

Brazill helped out the Chicks in the game in the eighth when, after Hammond and James had struck out, he doubled to right. Grant Gillis, who took the party when Andy Reese talked himself out in a debate with umpire Buck Campbell, flied to right. Hammond apparently had caught the ball, but it bounced out of his hands like a hot brick.

The Chicks started after Messenger in the first, Waddy doubling and Sherry hitting home.

The Crackers tied it in the third. Messenger singled for a starter. He advanced on infield outs by Barnes and Sherry and scored on "Poco" Tait's single.

The Crackers got to little relief for two runs, seemingly enough, in the sixth. With one out, Carlyle doubled. He scored on a single by Ryan, taking second on Autry's throw. It seemed in the early innings that the Chicks could not win would not score in spite of the chances the Crackers thrust at them.

Passenger walked Berger to start the third and when "Little Chief" Dobs made a guess that looked like a good one when he called on Gregory. Waddy crashed what looked like a sure hit but Ryan struck out to his right and literally scooped the ball to third for the only play possible, forcing Berger. Hamel forced Waddy and Gregory to pinch.

Gregory sailed along without a hit until Waddy opened the sixth with a single. When Hamel walked Dobs passed again, he caught on Morrison and Morrison got out of the hole by whiffing James and Reese and letting Taylor pop to right. Reese, inspired by Campbell making the second out.

FARMER KILLS OFFICER TO 'PROTECT' DAUGHTER

Wheeler County Man Surrenders After Shooting.
Four Held by Police.

ALAMO, Ga., July 24.—(P)—A 20-year-old girl, her father and brother, and a fourth person, all residents of Wheeler county, are being held in connection with the shooting early this morning of County Policeman Matt Long, of Alamo, as the party was returning from a community dance.

B. B. Chavis, 72, who admitted shooting Long from the rear after the county officer is said to have made improper approaches to his daughter, is confined in the Bibb county jail. He was taken to the jail by Sheriff H. N. Sears, of Wheeler county, and his son and deputy, John H. Sears, this morning, after the aged man surrendered to the officers.

The daughter, Miss Carrie Chavis, her brother, Norris Chavis, 31, and Ward Rolland, two of whom were in the dance party, are being held in Alamo pending a coroner's investigation Saturday.

Norris Chavis was not a member of the party, but hurried to the scene of the shooting when he heard the discharge of a gun, it was said.

The coroner's jury assembled in Alamo this afternoon, but only made an examination of the body. No witnesses were heard. A recess was ordered until 10 o'clock Saturday morning.

Chavis told newspapermen he had chaperoned his 20-year-old daughter, Carrie, to a dance at a part of Wheeler county some miles distant from the Chavis home near Alamo. The friend who provided transportation, he said, disappeared after the dance and County Policeman Long volunteered to take Chavis and his daughter home.

On the way, Chavis said, they stopped against his protest and procured whisky and home-brewed beer, of which they drank as they went on. Chavis said he drank some of the beer but none of the whisky. A short distance from the Chavis home, the farmer said, Long stopped his automobile and said he could go no further.

Assuming this was because the officer was intoxicated, the farmer continued, he left the car and went to find his daughter. He said he saw her and she refused to accompany him because she said she was "dizzy" from drinking. Chavis failed to find a driver and when he returned the car was gone.

The farmer went to his home and procured a gun, he said, because he was afraid he might be killed. He started out foot to hunt the automobile. He had proceeded but a short distance, he said, when he heard voices in a wooded section.

Investigating, the farmer said, he found Policeman Long trying to pull the girl from the car. She was crying, he said. He walked up behind the officer, he continued, and shot him in the back of the head.

Then he took his daughter home and returned to Alamo to surrender to the sheriff, he said. The party left the dance about midnight, he said, and the killing took place about 3 a. m. today. There was a fourth person in the car, Long drove, Chavis said, but he was asleep. He was Ward Rolland.

County Policeman Long is survived by a widow and three children. Chavis has a wife and six children, of whom Carrie is the youngest, he said.

Sheriff Sears said there apparently was no feeling against Chavis in Wheeler county but that he requested he be brought to a jail other than that at Alamo.

Long was the Wheeler county officer whom Griff Grinstead, who was electrocuted several years ago, blamed for the crime charged to him. Grinstead said that it was Long who had killed Homer Stucky, Montgomery county officer, in an accidental discharge of his gun while the officers were making an effort to apprehend him. Grinstead was an escapee at the time.

Chavis was acquitted in Jefferson county, the sheriff said, about twenty years ago for the murder of his uncle, Morgan Chavis. The uncle was charged by Chavis with making improper approaches to his wife.

CELEBRATION PLANNED FOR ROAD COMPLETION

AUGUSTA, Ga., July 24.—(P)—Highway enthusiasts will meet at Columbus, S. C., July 30 to plan a celebration of the completion of paving United States Highway No. 1 from Maine to Florida.

J. S. Moody, Augusta, secretary of United States Highway No. 1 Association, in announcing the Columbia meeting, said the celebration might be held at Cheraw, S. C., where the last concrete on the route is to be poured about August 20. He said letters regarding the celebration have been sent to more than 500 cities, automobile clubs, and other interested groups along the 1,500-mile route.

The highway traverses New England, New York, Delaware, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia and Florida. H. J. Carswell, of Waycross, president of the sponsoring association.

NORCROSS BOY SAVES THREE FROM RIVER

NORCROSS, Ga., July 24.—Chiford Brooks, who was recently acclaimed for his heroism in saving the lives of three Greenville (S. C.) youths from drowning, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Brooks, of Norcross. At the time of the rescue in the Reedy river, near Greenville, the boy was visiting his father, Mrs. Clyde Williams, of Norcross.

Young Brooks, 14-year-old boy, succeeded in pushing three companions to the bank when they were near death by drowning in a deep spot of the river. The boys were seeking for fish at the time when one, who could not swim, was in danger of drowning. Two others jumped in after him, but the struggles of the first were rapidly carrying all three down when young Brooks succeeded in pushing them to the river bank, some eight feet away.

A. M. E. CONVENTIONS ON AT CARTERSVILLE

CARTERSVILLE, Ga., July 24.—The Marietta district Sunday school and Allen Christian Endeavor League convention of the African Methodist church is meeting daily in St. Luke A. M. E. church, this city. Dr. J. A. Hadley presiding.

The district survey of Sunday school scholars and Allen Christian Endeavor League membership showed an increase of 100 members.

"How to Meet the Difficulties in Sunday School and League Work," by Rev. W. M. Hill; "The Christian Religion," by Rev. A. J. Brewster, were among the subjects discussed today.

Rev. W. M. Hill, of St. D. D. of the Philadelphia conference, addressed the convention. Short talks were made by F. L. Hadley, president of the Marietta district; Miss Alice Chatham, Miss Robinson, J. C. Carson and Addie Robinson. Professor C. F. Prothro gave a talk on vocational education. The essay prize contest features today's program. The educational sermon was delivered tonight by Dr. J. L. Shropshire, Acworth, with Acworth choir singing.

Dr. J. H. Edgo, pastor of St. Paul A. M. E. church, addressed the convention and extended an invitation to the body to visit the annual conference at Rome this year.

The following were elected delegates to the state tri-convention that meets in Columbus August 11: Fannie Mae Walker, Mary Gartrell, Emogene Childs, Gracie Bell Gates, Mamie Reugh, Alternates, Carrie Tripp, Susie M. Robinson, Fannie Mae Peyton, Beatrice Dobbs, Ruth Smith.

Primary for Edwards
Successor August 25

SAVANNAH, Ga., July 24.—(P)—August 25 was set by the first district executive committee Friday as the date of the democratic primary to nominate a successor to Representative Charles Gordon Edwards, who died last week.

The committee fixed August 8 as the final date for filing by candidates and announced that each candidate will be assessed $150 on filing. Entry fees in each of the 13 counties of the district will be fixed by the county executive committee.

The date of the formal election to follow the primary will be set by Governor Richard B. Russell Jr.

First Bale of Cotton
For 1931 Is Ginned

PELHAM, Ga., July 24.—(P)—The first bale of Georgia cotton for 1931 was ginned here today. The cotton was grown on what is known as the Eastern farm of Mrs. J. L. Hand, and weighed 430 pounds. According to a wire from the Savannah exchange, this is the first bale reported for this year. Cotton is opening rapidly in this section and from all indications rains will be running regularly in a few days.

Alabamian Named President
of Organization to Promote Production

VALDOSTA, Ga., July 24.—To vigorously promote the production and marketing of peanut pork the South-eastern Peanut Pork Association was permanently organized here today, following the close of the two-day conference of hog-producing and marketing experts of five states.

The organization was perfected with G. V. Ray, of Ozark, Ala., peanut organization extension service, as president. Other officers are L. M. Rhodes, Jacksonville, marketing commissioner of the Florida bureau of markets; vice president; R. W. Cammack, Savannah, Seaboard Air Line agricultural agent, secretary and treasurer.

The executive committee is composed of Dr. J. Phil Campbell, Athens, director of extension work, State College of Agriculture; L. M. Duncan, Auburn, Ala., director of extension work; Mr. Newell, Gainesville, Fla., director of extension work; C. H. Ungerman, Birmingham, president of Birmingham Packing Co.; H. M. Dowell, Moultrie, manager of Swift & Co. plant; D. D. Faircloth, Treble, Fla.; Max L. McKee, McRae, Ga., state bureau of markets.

The next meeting will be held at Ozark, Ala., in November of this year. The date is to be announced.

IMPOVERISHED FARMS
BLAMED ON POOR SOIL

WEST POINT, Ga., July 24.—"What is the Matter with the Farm?" was explained to the West Point Rotary Club Thursday by Chambers County Demonstration Agent H. C. Heath. The condition of the soil is blamed by Mr. Heath for poor crops, scrawny live stock, dilapidated buildings, empty purses, unpaid taxes and foreclosed mortgages.

Mr. Heath said that farmers in his section who had improved their soil with legumes had crops that showed no suffering from the drought. Mr. Heath is in attendance at Pine Mountain camp with the Boys' Agricultural Club of Chambers county.

3 AUGUSTA YOUTHS
FIGHT WHEN HUNGRY

LOS ANGELES, Cal., July 24.—(P)—The adventure of three 18-year-old Augusta (Ga.) youths, who hitchhiked here, has ended in a tragedy of broken bones.

Oscar Underwood is in a hospital in a serious condition from stab wounds and officers are looking for Edwin Arpin, his alleged assailant. The other Georgia youth, Lester Jennings, is held as a material witness.

Jennings told officers the trio was on the way to Los Angeles when they failed to find employment. This condition, he said, strained friendships, resulting in many quarrels and the subsequent stabbing.

CORDELE YOUTH BADLY HURT IN AUTO CRASH

CORDELE, Ga., July 24.—Paul Lamar Browne, popular member of the younger set of Cordele, is in the Plains hospital suffering from serious injuries consisting of a broken leg, a broken collar bone and severely crushed chest, sustained in an automobile accident near Byromville Thursday night.

Browne was riding in the rumble seat of a coupe with three companions when the car failed to take a sharp curve and turned over. He was pinned beneath the wreckage. Browne, of Detroit, driver of the car, and two Cordele girls, Olaene Dekle and Emma Arvaniti, escaped with slight injuries. The car was wrecked.

NAVAL STORES GROUP
OPPOSES KNAPP BILL

SAVANNAH, Ga., July 24.—(P)—The naval stores section of the Savannah Board of Trade today went on record as opposing a bill introduced in the state legislature by Senator Knapp, of the 4th district, that would amend the present code, providing for the appointment of a superintendent of naval stores.

S.E. PEANUT PORK BODY FORMED AT VALDOSTA

Alabamian Named President
of Organization to Promote Production

VALDOSTA, Ga., July 24.—To vigorously promote the production and marketing of peanut pork the South-eastern Peanut Pork Association was permanently organized here today, following the close of the two-day conference of hog-producing and marketing experts of five states.

The organization was perfected with G. V. Ray, of Ozark, Ala., peanut organization extension service, as president. Other officers are L. M. Rhodes, Jacksonville, marketing commissioner of the Florida bureau of markets; vice president; R. W. Cammack, Savannah, Seaboard Air Line agricultural agent, secretary and treasurer.

The executive committee is composed of Dr. J. Phil Campbell, Athens, director of extension work, State College of Agriculture; L. M. Duncan, Auburn, Ala., director of extension work; Mr. Newell, Gainesville, Fla., director of extension work; C. H. Ungerman, Birmingham, president of Birmingham Packing Co.; H. M. Dowell, Moultrie, manager of Swift & Co. plant; D. D. Faircloth, Treble, Fla.; Max L. McKee, McRae, Ga., state bureau of markets.

The next meeting will be held at Ozark, Ala., in November of this year. The date is to be announced.

IMPOVERISHED FARMS
BLAMED ON POOR SOIL

WEST POINT, Ga., July 24.—"What is the Matter with the Farm?" was explained to the West Point Rotary Club Thursday by Chambers County Demonstration Agent H. C. Heath. The condition of the soil is blamed by Mr. Heath for poor crops, scrawny live stock, dilapidated buildings, empty purses, unpaid taxes and foreclosed mortgages.

Mr. Heath said that farmers in his section who had improved their soil with legumes had crops that showed no suffering from the drought. Mr. Heath is in attendance at Pine Mountain camp with the Boys' Agricultural Club of Chambers county.

3 AUGUSTA YOUTHS
FIGHT WHEN HUNGRY

LOS ANGELES, Cal., July 24.—(P)—The adventure of three 18-year-old Augusta (Ga.) youths, who hitchhiked here, has ended in a tragedy of broken bones.

Oscar Underwood is in a hospital in a serious condition from stab wounds and officers are looking for Edwin Arpin, his alleged assailant. The other Georgia youth, Lester Jennings, is held as a material witness.

Jennings told officers the trio was on the way to Los Angeles when they failed to find employment. This condition, he said, strained friendships, resulting in many quarrels and the subsequent stabbing.

CORDELE YOUTH BADLY
HURT IN AUTO CRASH

CORDELE, Ga., July 24.—Paul Lamar Browne, popular member of the younger set of Cordele, is in the Plains hospital suffering from serious injuries consisting of a broken leg, a broken collar bone and severely crushed chest, sustained in an automobile accident near Byromville Thursday night.

Browne was riding in the rumble seat of a coupe with three companions when the car failed to take a sharp curve and turned over. He was pinned beneath the wreckage. Browne, of Detroit, driver of the car, and two Cordele girls, Olaene Dekle and Emma Arvaniti, escaped with slight injuries. The car was wrecked.

NAVAL STORES GROUP
OPPOSES KNAPP BILL

SAVANNAH, Ga., July 24.—(P)—The naval stores section of the Savannah Board of Trade today went on record as opposing a bill introduced in the state legislature by Senator Knapp, of the 4th district, that would amend the present code, providing for the appointment of a superintendent of naval stores.

Primary for Edwards
Successor August 25

SAVANNAH, Ga., July 24.—(P)—August 25 was set by the first district executive committee Friday as the date of the democratic primary to nominate a successor to Representative Charles Gordon Edwards, who died last week.

The committee fixed August 8 as the final date for filing by candidates and announced that each candidate will be assessed $150 on filing. Entry fees in each of the 13 counties of the district will be fixed by the county executive committee.

The date of the formal election to follow the primary will be set by Governor Richard B. Russell Jr.

First Bale of Cotton
For 1931 Is Ginned

PELHAM, Ga., July 24.—(P)—The first bale of Georgia cotton for 1931 was ginned here today. The cotton was grown on what is known as the Eastern farm of Mrs. J. L. Hand, and weighed 430 pounds. According to a wire from the Savannah exchange, this is the first bale reported for this year. Cotton is opening rapidly in this section and from all indications rains will be running regularly in a few days.

Brunswick's Bad Boy, Aged Nine, Jailed After Terrorizing Home

Georgia News Told in Brief

BRUNSWICK, Ga., July 24.—Brunswick has her bad boy. A very, very bad boy, he is held by local police pending some decision of what is to be done with the youth who terrorized his home yesterday, chasing his sister, her girl friend and other occupants of the house with a butcher knife and a shotgun and hurling china and glassware as they rushed for the doors.

Davis has sustained for himself quite a reputation as a bad boy in the vicinity in which he resides and also at school, where he has attacked three or four teachers and had drawn two suspensions, but yesterday he was taken into custody and is now in the juvenile court.

Just what he is to be done with Davis has not been decided, but he will probably be turned over to the juvenile court.

GOOLSBY SUCCEUMBS TO CRASH INJURIES

Georgian Dies After Accident
Restores Memory,
Lost Four Years.

MARSHALL, Texas, July 24.—(P)—His memory restored only a few days ago by the shock of an automobile accident, Thomas Scott Goolsby, 25-year-old Forsyth (Ga.) youth, today succumbed to pneumonia, the result of injuries received in the crash.

F. M. Jr. of Atlanta, who was in the automobile when it was abandoned but there was no trace of Goolsby. His parents, Dr. and Mrs. R. C. Goolsby, searched for him fruitlessly throughout the south.

In 1928 friends of the family saw young Goolsby in Abilene, Texas, and advised his father in Forsyth. His parents went to see him but were not recognized by the youth.

The family discovered a scar on the son's head which corresponded with blood stains found on his cap in his abandoned car, and attributed his loss of memory to the head injury.

Soon after he had come to Texas, Goolsby had married. His wife was visiting with the elder Goolsbys in Forsyth when he was injured in the automobile accident here July 14 that claimed one other life and injured two persons.

Dr. and Mrs. Goolsby and the younger Goolsby's wife hurried to his bedside here. For days he hovered in a coma, and on regaining consciousness he was assured by his parents that first time since his disappearance from Forsyth.

Culbertson on Contract

BY ELY CULBERTSON,
World's Champion Player and Greatest Card AnalystThe Forcing System
Defined

There are three characteristic features that distinguish the Approach Forcing System in Contract from other systems. They are:

First: The use of the first choice of the Approach suit bids in decided preference to no-trumps.

Second: The use of the Forcing two bid for the Opening bidder and of Forcing Takeouts for either partner.

Third: The use of the Direct method in preference to Ace-showing for slam bidding.

The Approach Method: When a hand offers a choice between an Opening trump bid and a no-trump, the suit (be it even a four-card minor) and not the no-trump, should be a rule bid first. This principle applies with hands containing singletons, as well as with those containing untrumped two or three-card suits. This apparently simple principle is of even greater importance in Contract than in Auction and carries with it as consequence some radical changes in the bidding methods of both partners. For instance, four-card suits headed as low as by an A J 10, the Q K Q or five-card suits headed by a K or Q, are bid freely and thus increase tremendously the game-making or game-saving range of hands. The requirements for adequate trump support is in turn made higher than usual: Three small trumps or a Queen small is not considered "adequate support." Partner should try to deny such support with some other trump Takeout with no-trumps, unless the first suit is rebid.

Another important consequence of the Approach Principle is that the Responding Hand takes out with weaker hands than in other systems. In the vital question of choice between two biddable suits, the most decided preference is given in the Forcing System to the longer suit.

Forcing Bids: The principle of Forcing bids, which gave the name to the system in Contract, is nothing but a logical extension of the Approach Principle and other methods already developed for Auction. In Contract where a game or Slam must be contracted for in order to score it, there are two situations which require that the bidding be kept unconditionally open by partner.

First Situation: Opening trump bids of two are Forcing. Such a two bid is a gigantic Approach bid and shows about 5 honor-tricks distributed in three suits. Partner's responses are: (1) must not pass; (2) cannot raise the bid suit holding at least three trumps to an honor and 1 honor-trick; (3) failing trump support can bid some other five-card suit, if headed by at least a Q J and 1 honor-trick; (4) holding a blank should bid two no-trumps (minimum response); (5) holding 1-12 honor-tricks should bid three no-trumps. Should partner himself hold a good hand, he need not jump the bid, since after the very powerful hand shown by the Opening bidder, the bidding must be kept open until a game contract is reached.

Second Situation: Any Jump Takeout in a suit by partner of the Opening bidder is a Forcing bid, provided such a "jump" is below a game contract. Forcing Takeouts show about 3 honor-tricks (in addition to partner's 2-1-2). Hence, after partner's Forcing Takeout, the Opening bidder cannot pass. If unable to support the partner's suit or rebid his own, his minimum response is the required number of no-trumps. The extraordinary feature of all Forcing bids is that the bid suit may be of minimum strength, even a good four-card suit, which absolutely prohibits partner from raising on less than three fairly good trumps. The underlying idea of a Forcing Takeout is to find out without risk of partner passing, whether he can support a suit, failing which there always remains the no-trump (Approach Principle).

Example of the Forcing Takeout:

Opening Hand	Responding Hand
7 5	N A J 4 3 2
K 10 9	Q J 8
A 10 9 8 7 6 5 4 3 2	W A Q J 10 9 8 7 6 5 4 3 2
Q 8 7	A Q 6

Bidding: West, "one diamond." East, "two spades." A Forcing bid, West, "two no-trumps."

A minimum response, East, "three no-trumps."

Certain writers use a jump suit Overall of an opponent's bid as a Force. I cannot agree with this, as I believe it too risky to force a response from partner in face of the considerable strength shown by the opponent.

Slam Bidding: The Direct method of Slam bidding instead of the unjustly popular "cue bidding" way, is the third important characteristic of the Forcing Principle. Instead of using a confusing convention to show Aces and often with an indefinite amount of tricks, we prefer to show a definite number of tricks in the belief that Aces will be, as a rule, automatically inferred from the bidding.

Today's Pointer.

A Small Slam should be bid on a hand which offers a slightly better than even chance of making the twelfth trick. When vulnerable somewhat greater risk can be taken, because the reward is greater.

Grand Slams should be bid rarely and only when the hand offers at least a three to one expectancy of fulfillment.

INSTALLMENT XIII.

"You will be with your grandparents, naturally, after I am gone. They are the salt of the earth, they have ever been kind, and I know they will adore you—but they cannot help you learn to know your father as he really is, for they do not know him as he really is, they do not understand, and this frightens me a little. You will not, must not fail, Henry. Because you are like me I think you will understand why I leave you my love for your father as your heritage from me."

"I pray that you may some day be allowed to make some girl as happy and sure hearted as Henry has made me. I pray God that the girl you love shall love you as I love Henry. This is my message and my prayer for my son from his mother."

Along with the yellowed letter were the few trinkets, a tress of bright hair not yet faded to smoothness, and a miniature on porcelain that Henry had painted of his young wife, in the first happy year of their marriage. Sam studied the little picture devoutly. His own resemblance to her, which he couldn't fail to see, gave him a poignant sense of intimacy. As she had divined, he understood.

"I put away a miniature of your mother, as well as some trinkets she liked to wear," Henry told his son when he gave him the key to the safety deposit box. "You are like her, as much as a strapping boy can look like a slender girl. You have her hair, her smile, her eyes." He winced, and then Sam saw his father's eyes later, when he read his mother's letter, he remembered his father's eyes. Henry never again mentioned the miniature, or the letter, and almost never spoke of Katie herself. His son knew now that his father winced away from the pain of it. Henry noticed that the boy showed him a deeper affection, a keener sympathy, an almost fierce loyalty, he said nothing of it. But he responded in his own inarticulate way, a way that was eager to grant any request, and was unhesitatingly generous and unselfish. He seemed to hold himself in readiness to serve, to be in eager waiting to do anything and everything his lordly son wished done.

When he saw Sam's chosen venture succeeding Henry was a little astonished. It gave him a secret pang to consider what Sam might have accomplished in the world of finance had he chosen money instead of milk. The one thing that consoled Henry was that Sam was indubitably going to be at the head of one of the great enterprises of the future.

Henry was home with him, as the Winstead house bore increasing evidence, Henry's taste being everywhere present. Henry found himself living in increasing comfort as Winsteads began to take on more and more the aspect and charm of a model modern bachelor establishment. Left to himself, Henry was austere—life should be useful, not decorative. But Sam had a flair for beauty and comfort, and Henry accepted the changes Sam brought, and found them satisfying. Sam was in constant social demand, a welcome guest in circles which wouldn't have considered his grandfather's name even in times past, his father, Henry had never troubled himself about his lineage. His life had been filled to overflowing in Katie's time—and after her going increasing business responsibilities occupied him, his personal demands being few and simple. But he was grateful that the situation which had at the outset confronted the Winsteads didn't exist for his son, whom he admired quite as much as he had admired Colonel Rutherford.

His resplendent neighbor's suicide had shocked Henry to the heart. That romantic and colorful figure had been the luminary in his boyhood's skies, made all the brighter by contrast with his austere parent.

When the colonel first mortgaged Oakleigh, to a real estate firm which would have foreclosed on the place when his investments failed, and he couldn't meet the interest, Henry immediately took over the whole amount when the colonel came to him for help. He most emphatically didn't want the suburban subdivision which the real estate men were planning to put into effect—he preferred the Rutherford. Henry discovered then, to his astonishment and regret, the flaw in the brilliant colonel—the man couldn't resist the itching urge to gamble, every now and then, to save his life. Obeying his gambler's instincts, he speculated modestly and at times he won enough to whet his appetite for more. Just as often he lost, which whetted the desire to recoup. He had been able to send his granddaughter to a fashionable school, and on summer trips to Europe, due to a successful deal in wheat. Then he began to lose.

Henry listened and shook his head. But he took over the mortgage, because he didn't want to have the suburban subdivision next to Winstead. When the next mortgage was made, Henry realized that he was practically buying Oakleigh—which he didn't want—from a man who had taken the hit between his teeth and was galloping down the road to ruin. Henry gave him time, never pressed him, but tried his best to restrain him. The end didn't so much surprise as it shocked the banker inexorably. He hadn't thought Rutherford would do that. Henry had racked his brains over seeking some nominal solution of the problem, a solution which would enable the colonel to retain Oakleigh—say at a fair rental. His plans were brought to nothing by the colonel's suicide.

But of all this Sally Rutherford knew nothing. It didn't occur to her that Henry might not want Oakleigh, his own estate being larger and finer, or that he might really have been motivated by the desire to oblige and protect her grandfather. Of course he wanted Oakleigh! To gain his ends he had taken cruel advantage of poor grandpapa's guilelessness.

It so happened that, while others of her friends had come in contact with the youngest Winstead, Sally hadn't. She retained but the faintest memory of that one childish meeting when she had haughtily ordered him off Oakleigh. She didn't know him, didn't want to know him.

The disclosure of grandpapa's affairs filled her with fear and anger. Mr. Sinclair tried to tell her something of the truth as he knew it, but the kindly lawyer couldn't find it in his heart to show up his old friend as having been foolish and reckless to the verge of insanity. Let the poor child keep her memory of her kindly grandfather. It was too bad, the lawyer reflected, that she should cherish such notions against Winstead—who was a kindly man enough, if one knew him.

Mr. Sinclair wondered dismally how the Oakleigh muddle was going to end. He could see no hope that the Rutherford could retain it—yet the girl clung to it desperately. It came to Mr. Sinclair that, in some ways, Rupert's granddaughter was very like Rupert himself. She had a quiet and agreeable place for small teas and bridge parties. She had unearthed several other places from the Oakleigh attic and closet, but she missed the dairymaid's good judgment. She realized with something like anger that half the pleasure and excitement of these funds of hers had lain in his quick recognition of their intrinsic value, in sharing the small adventure with him, in his pleasure when she made a ready sale.

Of course he had deceived her as to himself, he had impudently taken advantage of her ignorance of his identity to worm himself into her good graces. She had been friendly and unsuspicious, admiring the supposed mountain boy's unusual attainments. She had accepted favors at his hand, in the most neighborly way. Yes, he had deceived her, for all along he had been—Sam Winstead.

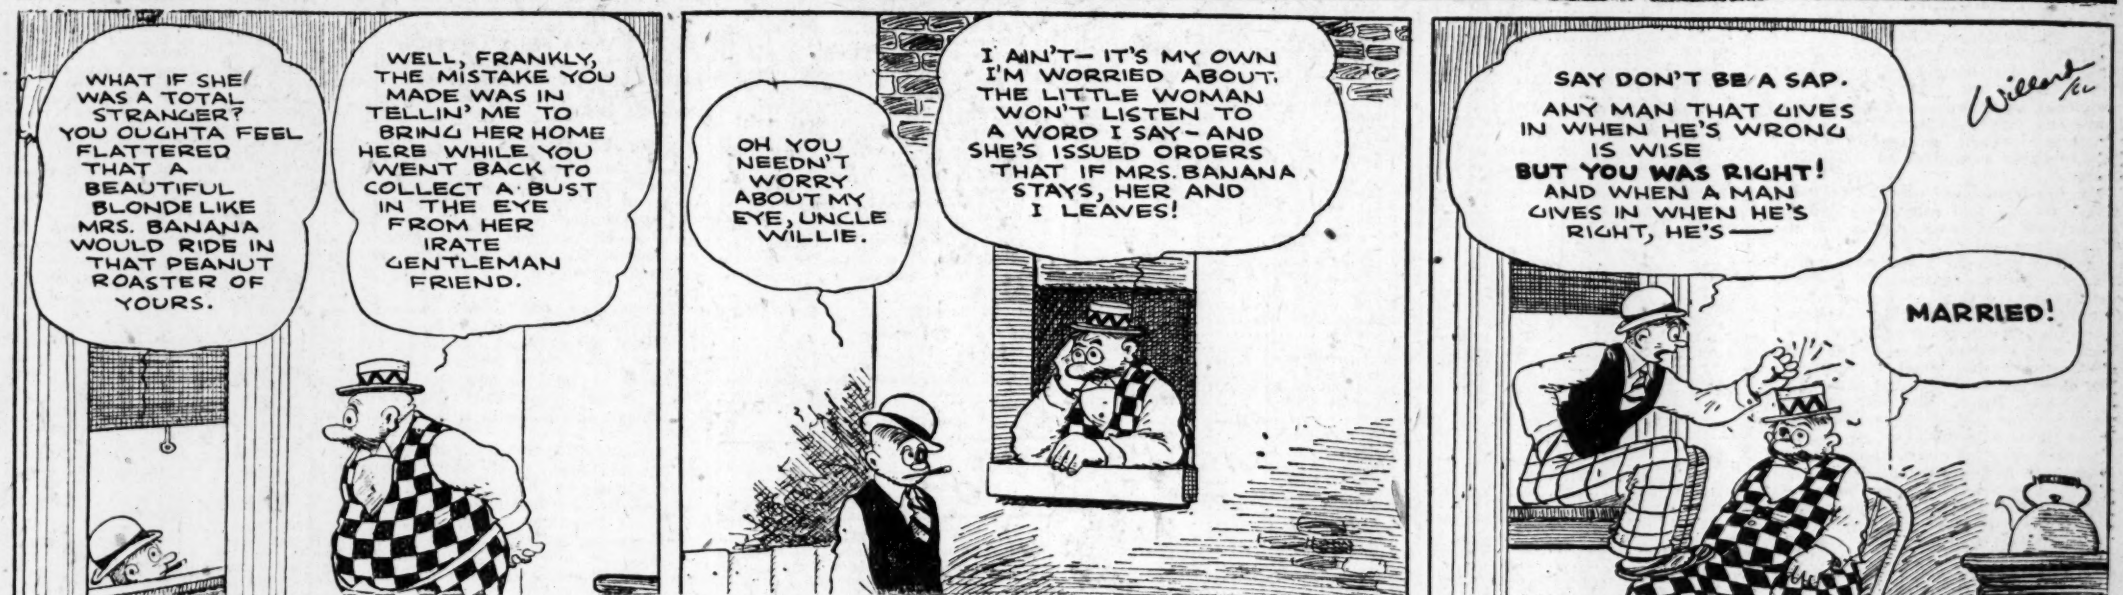

At this juncture Lowndes Jennings was a great relief to her.

BY JOHN P. BOUGHAN.
CHICAGO, July 25.—(P)—Sunk by its own weight, the wheat market to-day dragged down all other grain. Low prices failed to stimulate either export business or speculative demand. An authoritative statement was made that at this time the government sponsored Grain Stabilization Corporation had no negotiations under way for wholesale disposal of its wheat holdings of about 250,000,000 bushels.

Wheat closed unsettled, 1-2c to 1c

Wheat showed an almost constant downward trend, influenced by lower Liverpool quotations and by word that European countries were not

Most wheat selling consisted of hedging against purchases of newly harvested grain.

Transient upturns in corn resulted from anxiety concerning likelihood of crop damage in some sections as a result of hot weather and drouth. Oats sympathized with wheat rather than corn.

Provisions as well as grains lacked adequate buying support.

APACHE ARRESTED IN DEATH OF GIRL

WHITE RIVER, Ariz., July 24.—(AP)—The body of Miss Henrietta Schmeier, missing 25-year-old Columbia University research worker, was found today in a ravine on the White river Apache Indian reservation. A superficial examination indicated she had been slain.

The body was found after a search of more than two days through the rough country of the Apache reservation. White river is in the midst of an isolated section lying generally between Phoenix and Holbrook. Miss Schmeier disappeared last Saturday. Shortly after the search got under way, a 25-year-old Apache, Claude Gilbert, was taken into custody. Friends of the woman said she had planned to attend a dance with him. She did not appear at the dance and Gilbert denied he had taken her or had seen her after a casual meeting Saturday afternoon.

She came west from New York to do research work among the Indians for Columbia University, studying their customs and life. Talk has been heard of ill-feeling among the Indian women of the reservation over the attractive young white woman's presence.

34 GUARDSMEN HURT IN MISSISSIPPI STORM

ALEXANDRIA, La., July 24.—(AP)—Thirty-four Mississippi national guardsmen were injured and considerable property damage done by an electrical storm which struck Camp Beauregard tonight.

Carl Douglas, 19, of McComb, and Joseph Wink, 22, of Biloxi, were most seriously injured. Douglas sustained a fractured skull and Wink injury to his side, believed to be a ruptured appendix.

Tents were blown down, trees flattened, an airplane demolished and one frame building damaged. Officers endeavored to keep order as rain-soaked guardsmen sought refuge from a heavy downpour which accompanied the storm.

HIGH TEMPERATURES HINDER EDISON WORK

WEST ORANGE, N. J., July 24.—(AP)—Recent high temperatures have kept Thomas A. Edison from his usual daily activities at his laboratories. He has visited his workshop only once during the last three weeks.

John V. Miller, his brother-in-law, said Edison overworked on his rubber experiments in Florida last winter. And the recent heat wave has made it advisable for him to curtail his activities.

His time is spent on his Llewellyn Park estate except for occasional short automobile rides.

BANDITS TAKE $2,200 AT TENNESSEE BANK

COLUMBIA, Tenn., July 24.—(AP)—The Hampshire bank, at Hampshire, 16 miles from here, was held up today by three young men, who obtained $2,200 and fled in an automobile. The robbers drove to the top of the bank and while one remained in the car the other two entered, drew pistols, forced employees and customers to lie on the floor and took all the money in sight.

Red River's 'War of the Bridges' Wanes as Lawmakers Seek Peace

DURANT, Okla., July 24.—(AP)—As Oklahoma national guardsmen and Texas Rangers faced each other across the Red river tonight it appeared that the "War of the Bridges" would be a short-lived and humdrum from the military standpoint, the lawmakers of Texas having acted quickly to re-establish peace.

A bill which the legislators believed would remove the cause of "war" was passed at Austin and dispatched to the governor of Texas for his signature. Legal moves were expected to follow, resulting in throwing open to traffic the Denison-Durant free bridge, about which interstate hostilities have centered.

Meanwhile, all was quiet on the battle front. A detachment of 33 Oklahoma national guardsmen patrolled a small martial law zone at the Oklahoma end of the Denison toll bridge, which has been barricaded by Governor W. H. Murray, who wants the free bridge opened.

Half a mile away, on the other side of the river, five Texas Rangers guarded the south end of the free bridge, which Governor Ross S. Sterling ordered kept closed until the lifting of a federal court injunction obtained by the toll bridge owners against use of the free structure.

Lieutenant Colonel John A. McDonald, commanding the Oklahoma troops, was told by Adjutant General Charles F. Barrett to "hold the fort, but keep the cost down."

General Barrett said there would be nothing spectacular about the affair, but that no one would be allowed in the zone without passes, and that martial law might be lifted "in a day or so."

Tattooed Arm Leads To Convict's Capture

Back in the days of windjammers and barkentines, sailors tattooed themselves to establish a permanent means of identification, a purpose that of recent years has rendered largely unnecessary. However, police used a tattooed arm Friday night to identify and arrest Charlie Randall, who is alleged to be an escaped convict from Jacksonville, Fla.

Detectives W. J. Anderson and B. E. Blair were riding back and forth in front of 172 Washington street waiting for a propitious time to raid the establishment in order to pick up Randall. One of them flashed a light on the house and noticed an arm, emblazoned with the indelible marks, extended from a window. They rushed into the house and brought out their quarry. It is alleged that Randall was sentenced last December to one year for breaking and entering, but escaped within nine months still to serve.

LOUISIANAN ENDS LIFE OF WIFE, SELF

ALEXANDRIA, La., July 24.—(AP)—Virgil Pippin, 36, killed his wife, Virginia Pippin, 34, and then shot himself through the heart, dying instantly. They were both 63 years old.

Pippin had apparently been demented for some time. He had been driving a car and had been driving in a closed automobile. His wife had been seriously ill for the past six months and the medical belief is that he perpetrated the shootings to put an end to their suffering. The shooting occurred at their home in Boyce.

Mrs. Pippin was a native of Natchitoches, La., while her husband came to Louisiana from Maryland. They leave a 15-year-old daughter.

Royal Couple Begin Wedding Ceremonies

BUCHAREST, Rumania, July 24.—(AP)—Only one day remains before a royal wedding. Princess Ileana, of Rumania, and Archduke Anton, of Hapsburg, are to be married Sunday at Sinaia, and the ceremonies in connection with the wedding already have begun.

The only ritual to be performed according to the Greek Catholic rite took place yesterday, when there was a special church mass at Sinaia. King Carol, Crown Prince Michael and Dowager Queen Marie were among the royalty present.

The mass was conducted by the Rumanian patriarch, Miron Cristea. The other ceremonies are to be those of the Roman Catholic church.

ATLANTA IS HURT IN AUTO COLLISION

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., July 24.—(AP)—Eight persons were injured when a police car and automobile crashed on the Ringgold road nine miles south of this city tonight. The most seriously injured was Joe Mason, 30, of Warren street, Atlanta, who suffered broken ribs, punctured left lung, lacerated knee and head and split nose.

Others injured were Tom Carter, Ingle Newton, Barney Kendrick, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Henshaw, Mrs. J. A. Henshaw, Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Mason, all of this city. Joe Mason was en route here to visit his son when injured.

UNITED CIGAR, GILLETTE SETTLE DAMAGE SUITS

NEW YORK, July 24.—(AP)—Large counter damage suits filed against each other by the Gillette Safety Razor Company and the United Cigar Stores Corporation have been settled, it was learned today. An early announcement was expected.

Gillette Safety Razor company last May filed suit in supreme court in New York against the United Cigar Stores Company of America for $300,000 damages, alleging misrepresentation by United in connection with a contract expiring in 1937 between the two companies covering the marketing of Gillette razors and blades by United.

A counter suit was filed in the same month in United States district court, Newark, N. J., by United, asking $7,000,000 damages for alleged breach of contract.

Key Turns Kid Again as Guest at Playground Party

James L. Key, Atlanta's 62-year-old chief executive, and a group of residents of the Old Ladies home, turned kids again Friday afternoon with about 600 youngsters of Howell park playground. Key is shown in the above picture with a group of young celebrators. The visitors played with the children and posed with them, and when Key quit the park he was the most popular "kid" of the party. The play event is conducted by Miss Dorothy Wakefield, director, and Miss Charlotte Reynolds, assistant. William C. McRae, Fulton county legislator, and Mrs. McRae presented a huge cake to the youngsters. Among others attending were George L. Simons, general manager of parks and playgrounds, and Mrs. M. H. Margeson, director of playgrounds. Key went by the Old Ladies home and brought an automobile load of residents to the party and then took them back. Staff photo by Sandy Sanders.

Woman Detained 2 Years in Russia Gains New Hope in Plea to Shaw

BY STANLEY P. RICHARDSON.
(Copyright, 1931, by The Associated Press.)
Dmitri Krynie, Yale professor, was found today by an Associated Press correspondent, who conveyed to her the first news that her husband had invoked the aid of Lady Astor and George Bernard Shaw in efforts to obtain permission for her to join her family in the United States.

She grasped eagerly the hope that something may be done in her behalf after two years of separation from her family. Professor Krynie, whose cablegrams to Lady Astor and the Irish dramatist from New Haven furnished a dramatic climax to a British embassy reception in their honor yesterday, asked that both help his wife in Moscow (in the name of humanitarian principles). Professor Krynie declared she had been refused permission to leave Russia.

Mme. Krynie was found living in a large, bleak lodging house. Speaking of her husband, she said she had no complaint beyond the fact that she was not allowed to rejoin her family. "Life is very difficult here, of course, but I want you to know that I complain about nothing except that I am not allowed to go to my husband and son," she said.

"Never have I been molested by any one. I am not a counter-revolutionary. I am liberal minded. Any one can see I am not the type to mix in politics. But I have applied three times for permission to go to America and each time there has been refusal without explanation."

The family lived together in Moscow from 1917, through war and revolution, until 1925, when the son left for America and was followed in 1929 by his father. "As for food," Mme. Krynie said, "I get along very well. I receive $50 a month from my son and that makes 97 rubles. I have a food card and my son and husband also send me various foods from America."

Mme. Krynie is unemployed and spends most of her time at home studying English. Lady Astor and Shaw left last night for a two-day visit to Leningrad, after the former had failed in an effort to see high officials of the secret police in the interest of Mme. Krynie. She indicated she would pursue her plan on return here and also seek to interview the professor's wife.

Boy Scouts Aid in Search for Lad Who Left Home To Help Parents

NEW ORLEANS, July 24.—(AP)—Boy Scouts here today searched the city and adjacent territory for a fellow scout who tried to do his "good turn" by leaving home after he had heard his parents discussing hard times and the father's lack of steady employment.

The object of their search, Malcolm Stephens, 14, disappeared last Tuesday, leaving behind a note addressed to "Dear Mother and Dad," which said:

"I hope you will all get along better without me and I hope my expense saved will give you some new shoes, stockings and clothes."

Plans for a nation-wide scout search were discussed by scout officials here after three days had failed to turn up a trace of the missing boy in this section.

The mother, Mrs. M. A. Stephens, said Malcolm might have gone to relatives in Jacksonville, Fla., or Atlanta.

ATLANTA SAILORS BACK HOME SUNDAY

CHARLESTON, S. C., July 24.—Atlanta naval reserves arrived in Charleston Friday afternoon prepared to disembark Saturday and leave for Atlanta Saturday night. Captain R. M. Emmett congratulated officers and men at his final inspection Friday morning, and their splendorous showing on cruise. "I can find nothing on which to criticize. You have an outstanding reserve organization," said the commander.

Reserves will arrive at the Union station, Atlanta, Sunday on special train.

EARLY START SEEN ON BROAD VIADUCT

Start of construction of the new Broad street viaduct within the next few days was seen Friday with the signing of a contract between Fulton county and the Griffin Construction Company at a total cost of $44,251.

The contract was drawn by County Attorney Charles Shelton, following acceptance of the bid Tuesday. It was signed by the construction company officials and Walter C. Hendrix, chairman of the county commission, in the office of the attorney Friday.

The contract sets out that the Griffin company will start work within five days after notification on the part of City Engineer C. E. Kauffman, and that the work must be completed within 72 working days. County officials stated that they did not know just when the Griffin company would make the necessary notification but that it probably would be given within a few days.

It was stipulated in the contract that for every day in addition to the 72 in which the construction company agrees to complete the bridge, the contractor will be fined $100. Street car lines are to be re-routed within the next few days. The new bridge when completed will have been erected in a saving of approximately $24,000 by the county. The bid was that much under the city engineer's estimate of $68,000.

Before signing the contract the Griffin Construction Company posted bond for faithful performance.

WJTL WILL GIVE MIDNIGHT PROGRAM

Starting at the witching hour of midnight, Station WJTL, the broadcasting group at Oglethorpe University, will give a four-hour program of music tonight. From midnight until 12:30 o'clock, the studio 14-piece orchestra will play a request number exclusively. At 12:30 Johnny Carr comes on, playing his Hawaiian guitar until 1 o'clock. A negro quartet follows for half an hour, interpreting several popular songs. From 1:30 until 2 the North Georgia Buggies will give a program of popular old-time songs.

At 2 o'clock in the morning the studio dance orchestra will play popular dance numbers, trying to play only those numbers that have been the subject of the greatest number of requests. At 3 o'clock the studio will be in the hands of the public. Any request will be granted from a musical standpoint. If it be a dance number the orchestra will play it. If someone wants to hear an old-time favorite, that favorite will be forthcoming. The group boasts that no song that ever has had any degree of popularity can be suggested that some of their number cannot play.

AIRPORTS OF NATION NOW NUMBER 1,863

WASHINGTON, July 24.—(AP)—There were 1,863 airports and landing fields of all types in the United States on July 15, an increase of 206 over the same date in 1930.

The figures compiled by the commerce department showed California, with 169, led all states. Texas was second with 133, and Pennsylvania third with 90. Alaska had the largest number of auxiliary fields with 40. The classification of fields showed 577 municipal, 601 commercial, 351 intermediate, 269 auxiliary, 57 army, 12 navy and 6 miscellaneous.
